HERE I STAND

Like that spot — bold and strong. With a little imagination it could be a spotlight on you. You as a member of Concordia Teachers College, belonging to the Lutheran Church, Missouri Synod, serving the Lord, living in the United States. It is bold and strong. Challenges greet us everyday but we stand, firmly holding on to our individual beliefs. As the theme HERE I STAND is used in our school year we are reminded of the 450th year of the Reformation and Martin Luther's stand for his faith. Our lives are dedicated to the Lord so our base is firm and strong. We are by faith like that spot crying out HERE I STAND . . . . .

CAMPUS LIFE

Newest Addition to a Growing Campus

The center of attention for students during the first months of 1968 was the opening of the new Campus Center in February, marking the first time that such complete facilities were made available to the students and faculty. Concordians and their friends met to sing thanks and praises to God and to commit the use of the building to His glory during dedication services. Tours of the new Center revealed an impressive lounge area dominating the main floor, and recreational areas with a snack bar and book store on the lower level. Meeting rooms and offices were provided, and an elegant Heritage Room furnishes the setting for alumni meetings. Concordians lost no time in making extensive use of a building which students, Hub members, and friends of the college financed.

Construction is underway, and the lounge area emerges.

Furnishings add the final touch to a finished product.

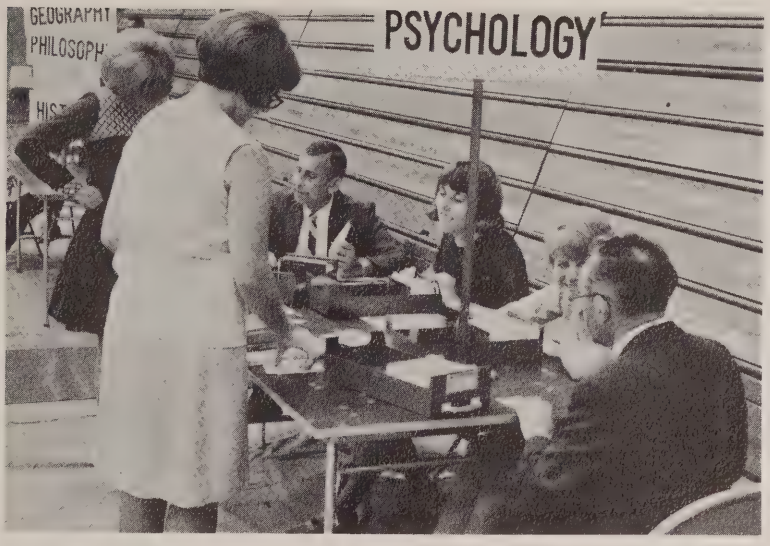
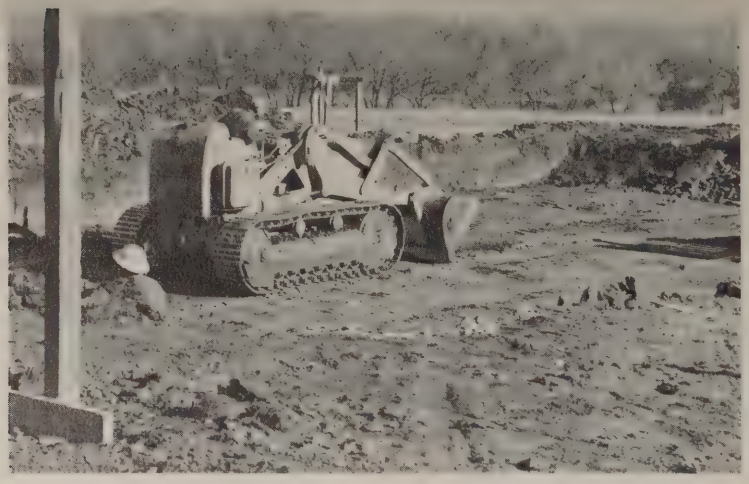
Start of a New Year is Hectic

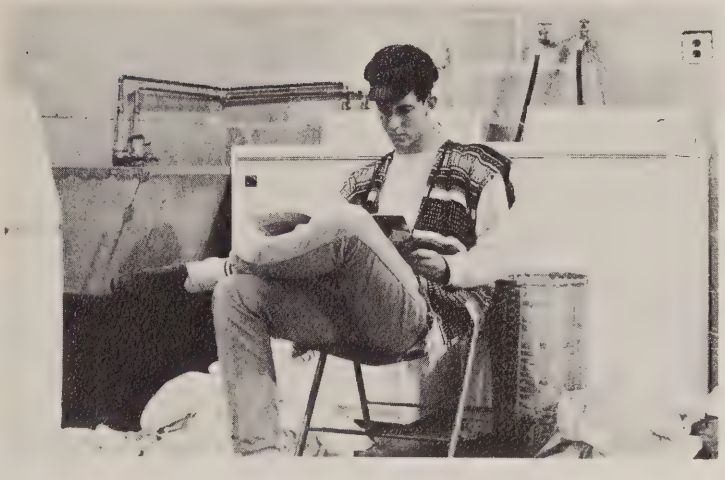


Both new and returning Concordia students found that they had little time to reflect on the events engulfing them as they extricated suitcases from trunks of cars, packed away mountains of clothing and supplies in new rooms, and underwent the bewildering and rather exhausting job of registration. Time was found, however, to make new acquaintanceships and renew old ones, to become familiar with an every growing campus, and to find fellowship in singing the praises of the Lord who was to be their guide during the following months of study at CTC.



CTC Grows to Fit Needs of Students

In the fall of 1967 Concordians once again welcomed the advent of new people, ideas, and projects. The beginning of construction on David Dorm symbolized another beginning—the entrance into college life for incoming freshmen. After withstanding the rigors of registration, testing, and initiation, they were formally recognized as members of the student body at a freshmen-sophomore social, and quickly found themselves absorbed into dorm, scholastic, and social activities. Before Thanksgiving spelled a break in the routine, the initiates considered themselves integrated members of the Concordia campus family.



Students Go Into Action

The homecoming committee puts in long hours completing various jobs and preparing a setting for the circus events to highlight the coming days.

Enthusiastic students add to the carnival spirit of the "Big Top" by patronizing the colorful booths which were prepared by the various dorms.

Concordia students go to all heights to provide decorations for the campus and to announce the arrival at CTC of the "Greatest Show on Earth."

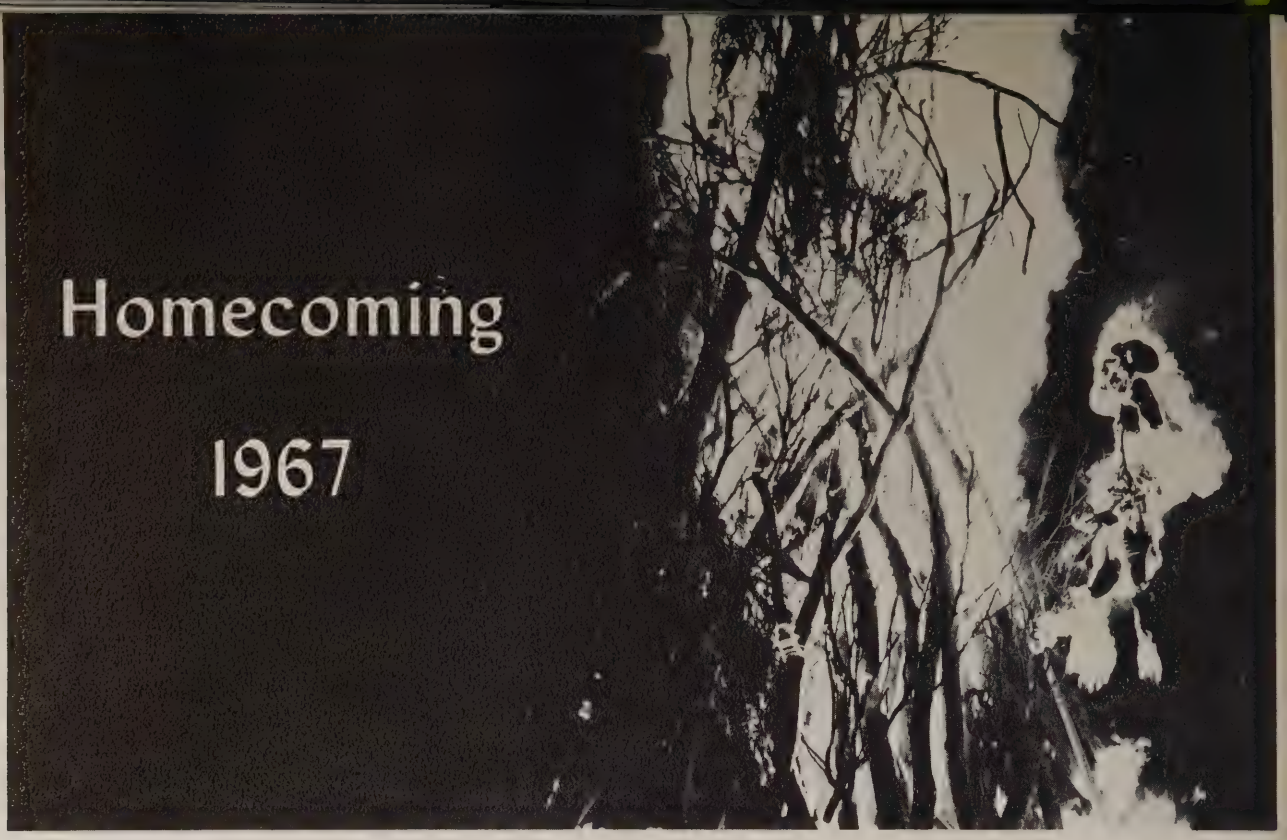
Effort Reaps Success

Months of preparation by the homecoming committee and by its co-chairmen, Nancy Ehlmann and Ron Schlegemilch, was climaxed by the weekend presentation of the "Greatest Show on Earth." Tents were set up, carnival entertainment was provided by the dorms and off-campus homes and music filled the air as students appeared in original circus costumes to join in the spirit of the celebration. A football game climaxed the weekend, which also featured a snake dance and bonfire, the traditional circus parade, the crowning of the Homecoming Queen and the announcement of 1967's Mr. Football, and the balloon-filled gaiety of a circus carnival. Beautiful fall weather added a final fitting touch as alumni of Concordia thronged to join the spirited activities of CTC students.

Professor Marxhausen and Milt Heinrich join the excitement of a dress-up day as they don their colorful, individualistic apparel for the circus.

Homecoming 1967



A crowd gathers at the bonfire site to fire the team up for a victory.

Mr. Football, Rod Voelker, watches with intent approval as the Raider is consumed in the flames.

Following a clownish dress-up day which served to set the carnival mood, a snake dance took students winding and twisting across campus. The bonfire and cheerleader spirit aroused the enthusiasm of the student body and prepared everyone for the excitement of Saturday's football game. A pep talk given by Coach Harms predicted a Bulldog victory and was followed by the announcement that Rod Voelker was Mr. Football for the year.

An anxious crowd awaits entrance to the attractions of the "Big Top."

Among the attractions patronized by Concordians are the kissing booth, psychedelic wonders, and jello-throwing at profs.

Coach Harms verbalizes the firm confidence of the team and the coaches.

Nancy Ehlmann Crowned Queen

The 1967 Homecoming attendants are Karen Kruse and Lynette Toensing.

Homecoming chairmen Nancy Ehlmann and Ron Schlegelmilch plan events.

In a performance preempting the coronation ceremony, the wizard and the thugs are doing their utmost to wheedle information from Delbert.

Among the events punctuating the pleasure of the homecoming weekend was the presentation of Concordia's first dance, for which many students and faculty members crowded into Brommer.

Every Circus Must Have A Colorful

Speaker Dr. Brandhorst points to a victory.

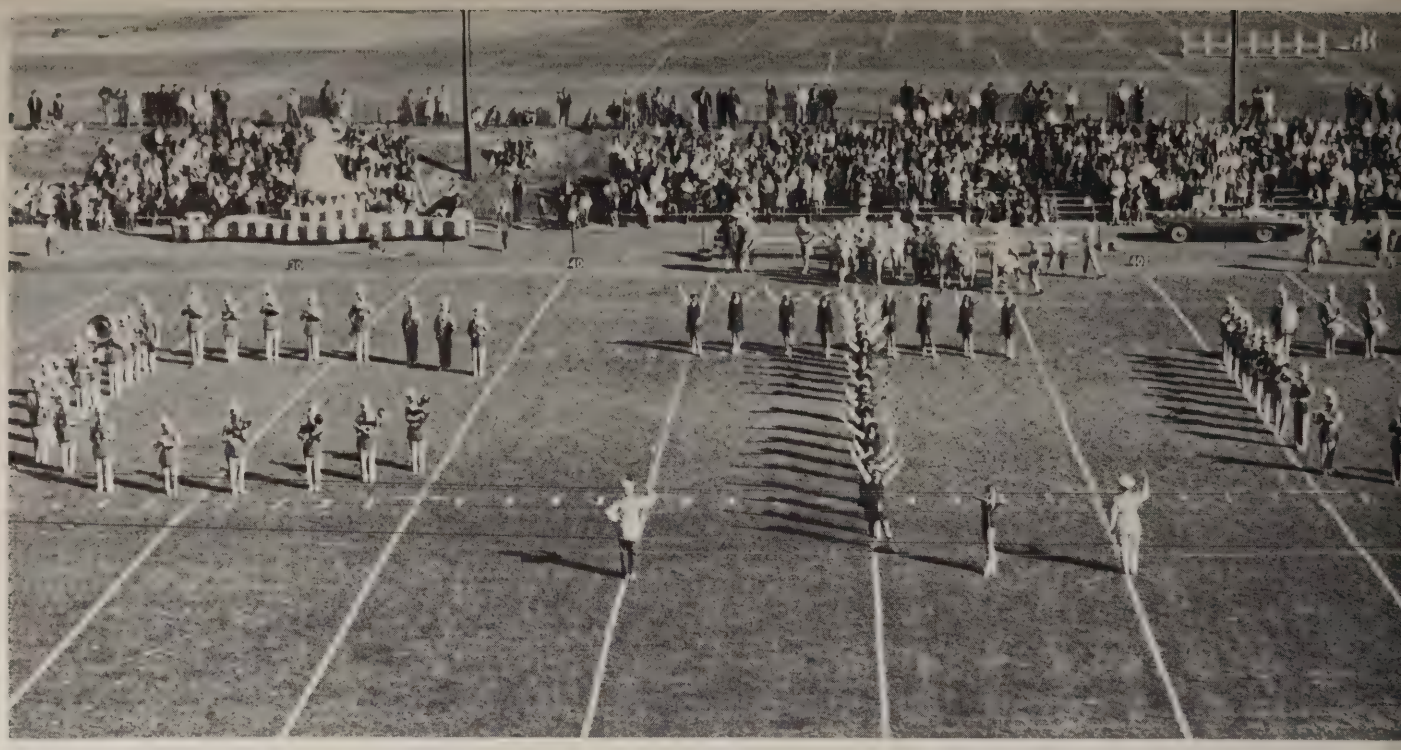
Freshmen volunteers are delighted to provide manpower for towing their float.

The elephant and seals of the Senior float take first place for best depicting the circus theme for 1967's Homecoming.

Parade

Marcia Winkelman takes pleasure in helping to meet the Saturday deadline.

For their first performance, Concordia's new precision drill team marches along the parade route before the homecoming crowds. Comprised of coeds from each of the four classes, its execution of marching maneuvers testifies to weeks of planning and practice by the members and their leader.



A parading drill team joins the Concordia band to entertain the homecoming crowd with gay familiar circus tunes during the half time activities. "Baby Elephant Walk" provides the theme tune for the precision march routine by the drill team.

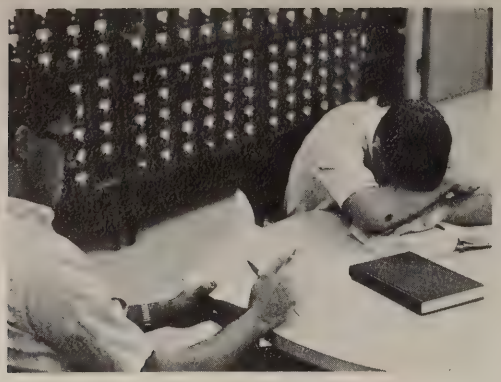
The members of the marching band keep their eyes on the Drum Major, Armin Schulz, as he leads them in their well-executed afternoon's performance.

Concordia students share their enthusiasm and appreciation for our fighting Bulldog team by cheering them on to a well-deserved victory.

Crowd Enjoys a Victory

Highlighting the sunny Saturday of a gay festive weekend was the contest between the Northwestern Raiders and a powerful Bulldog team. Concordia romped forward for an easy victory in one of the best games of its season. CTC's scoreboard, showing the Bulldog's power, provided a pleasing sight as effective aerial and ground attacks added up to a 33-0 attack on the Raiders. Dick Grauer, Jim Young, and Jim Widyn charged into the end zones for touchdowns in the homecoming game. Jim Meisinger topped the touchdowns off by his successful attempts for extra game points. Dick Grauer proved a very capable member of the defensive team as he totaled up 15 tackles and 7 assists. The six interceptions established a CTC record in pass interceptions. Ending the afternoon in a determined manner, the Raiders were defeated by a victorious Bulldog team.

In just one of the many exciting moments of an exceptionally exciting gridiron game, the Bulldogs look hopefully for the opportunity to pave the way for a long punt return and possibly for a touchdown. The very determined Concordia team climaxed the afternoon with a triumph over Northwestern.



Footsteps clearly mark paths in the lives of Concordians.

Freshmen men are burning the night oil in Jesse Hall while attempting to get tests studied for, papers written, and last minute projects done.

Anticipation Intense for the Snow Weekend

Rich casts his vote after looking over selections.

Referee Jim Wacker stretches out in order to obtain a better viewpoint.

"A Midwinter Night's Dream" set the stage for the Winter Weekend activities. Performing in the skit directed by Marya Luessenhop were Rich Bolland, Steve Grupe, Marilyn Schroeder, Jean Truog, Tim Dinger, and Brad Vanderhamm. Many laughs were provided by the efforts of the group in trying to find a performance befitting the new Queen.

Snow Dance Climaxes Coronation

Providing the musical background for an evening of festivities and gaiety for the Concordia students are the Wind Drifts from Lincoln.

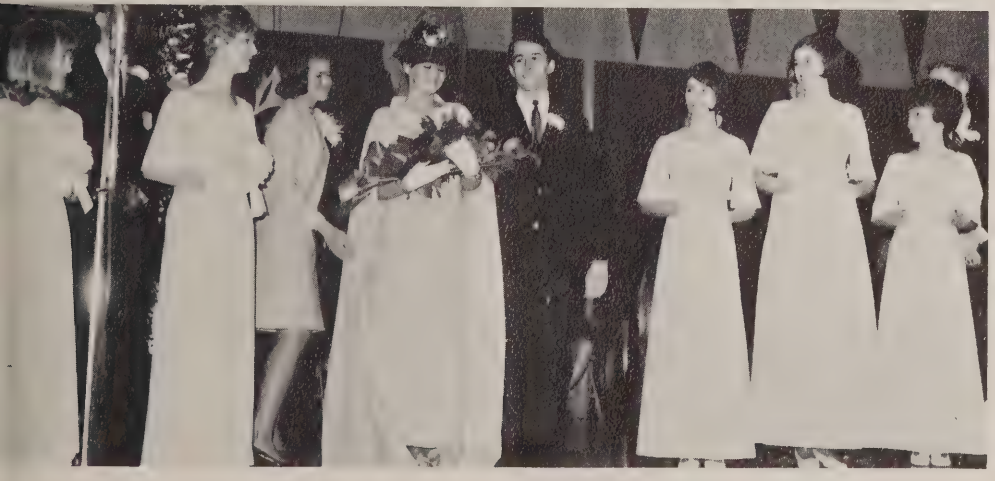
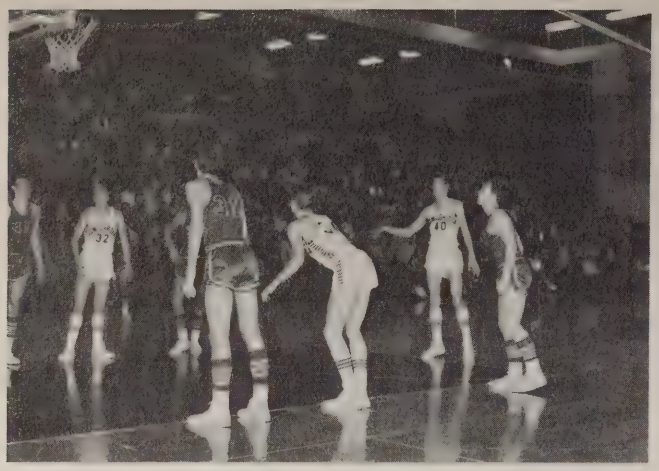
Queen Jeanne Gally manifests a radiant smile following coronation.

Jeanne Gally crowned Snow Queen by Dean Helge.



The eyes of the candidates follow the newly-crowned Queen and her escort, Denny Uecker.

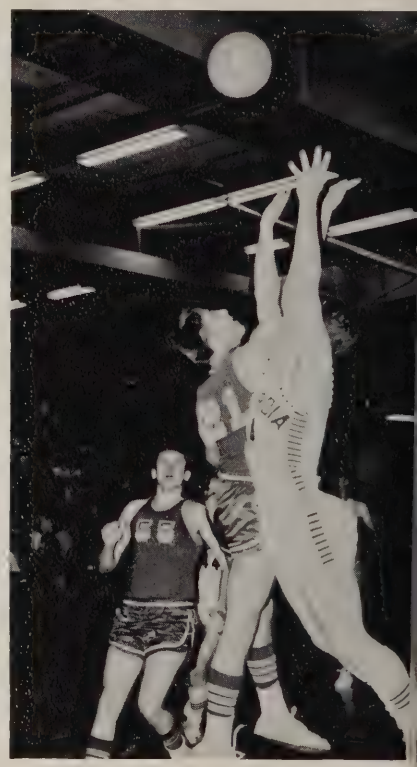
Bulldogs go to CIT



Concentration is intent with Mike Tonn at free throw line.

It's Ken Mangels turn to score as he goes up for a short shot.

On February 23-24 the hustling Concordia Bulldogs brought their season to close by competing in the Concordia Invitational Tournament at River Fore Friday night found the Bulldogs losing a close one, 70-67, to Concordia Semi ary, St. Louis, later the tournament champions; but Saturday's game was a d ferent story with St. Paul, Minnesota, bowing out, 102-71.



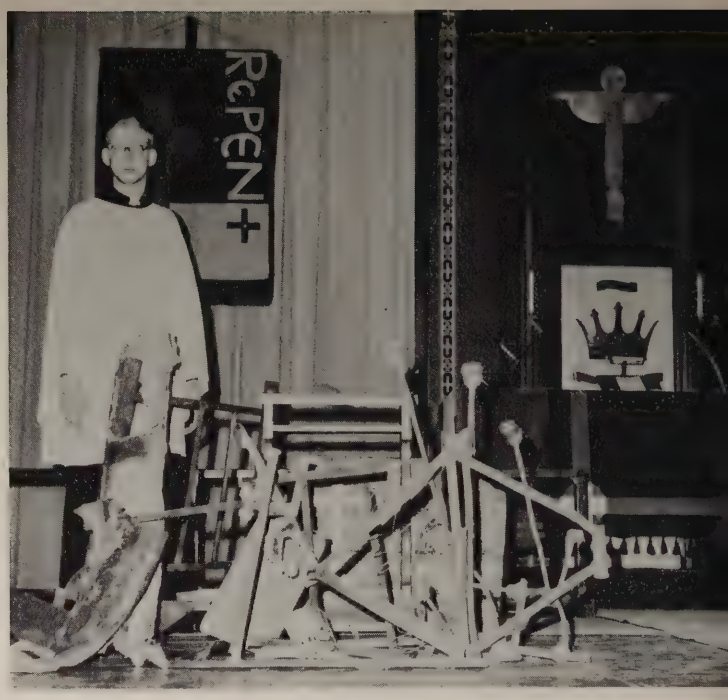
Keeping up with daily events is an absorbing job for Jeanne Chastoney and Wayne Johannes as they check on articles in the newspaper.

Kathy and Dick take time out to enjoy a special letter from home.

Students Socialize

Classes, meetings and daily contact with others breed a constant interaction among the members of the student body, faculty and service staff at Concordia. Few find that they want to isolate themselves from conversations with professors and classmates, the sharing of some news from home, or from a spirited argument with dormmates.

Student Life Centered in Christ



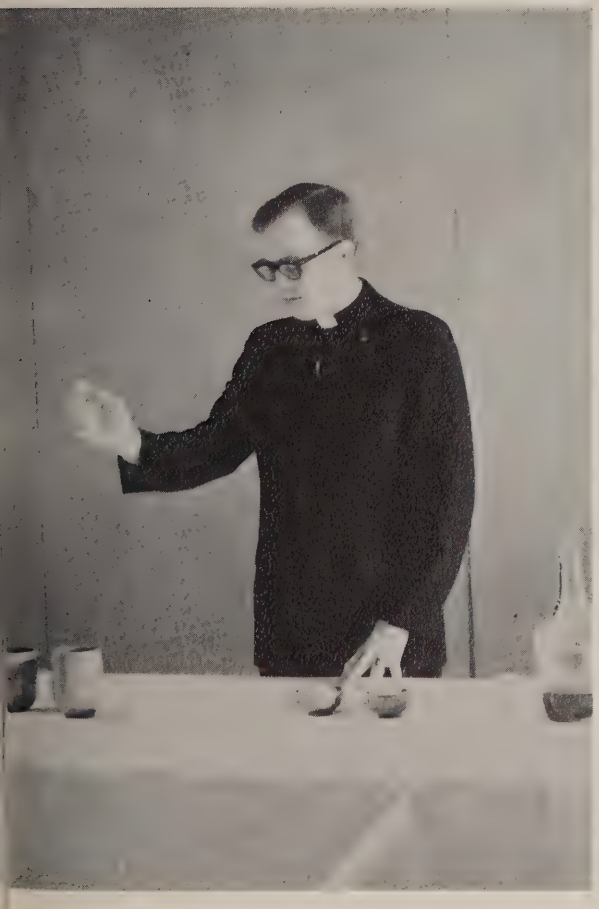
The primary focus of attention throughout the year at Concordia is the worship of the Trinity and the study of the Word of God. Daily chapel services, dorm and all-campus devotions, and weekly and special church services enable each student to enrich his private spiritual life each day. Prayer chapels are found in each of the dorms and in the music center to provide Concordians with an atmosphere for quiet meditation. Individuals spend hours preparing aids for worship, such as the "pile of junk" displayed during Lent and presented by Rod Beecher as a reminder to each and every Concordian of his wretched condition in the sight of God.

Attention is focused during the opening service on the spiritual theme for the year: "Here I Stand." Joined by families and friends, CTC students meet together to begin their studies by singing praises to God and by celebrating the Lord's Supper in the fellowship of Christ.

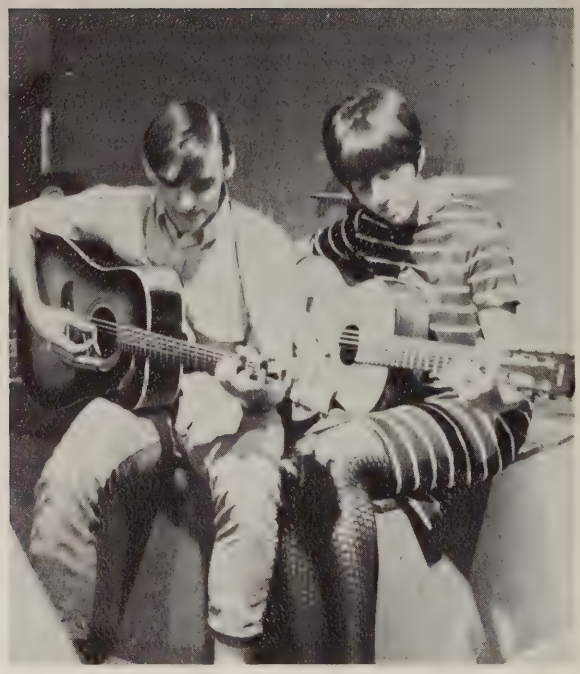
New Faculty members are welcomed into the Concordia family during services prior to the beginning of classes.

Concordians are reminded of the First Supper as they celebrate communion from earthenware dishes.

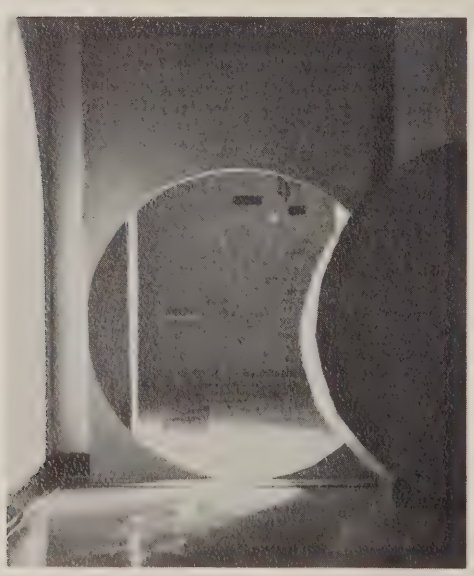
Stations of the Cross Inspire

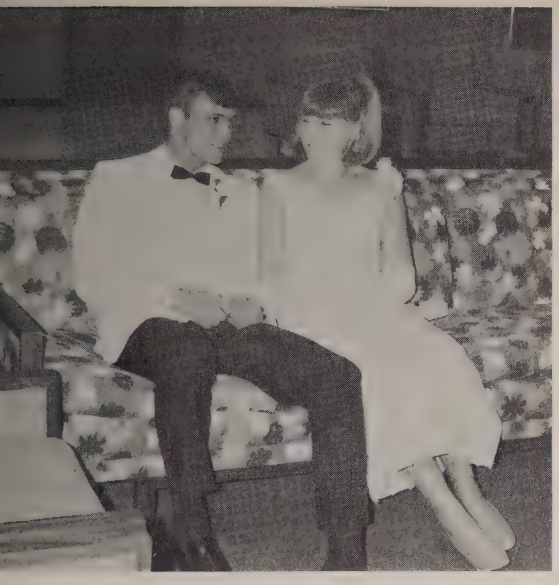


The evening before leaving for Easter vacation Concordians were again privileged to walk the Stations of the Cross in remembrance of the paths Christ walked from the time of his agony in Gethsemane until his resurrection. The settings were prepared by the Spiritual Life Committee and by LSWMA, and the walk was concluded with the celebration of the Lord's Supper in three of the basement rooms of Weller Hall.



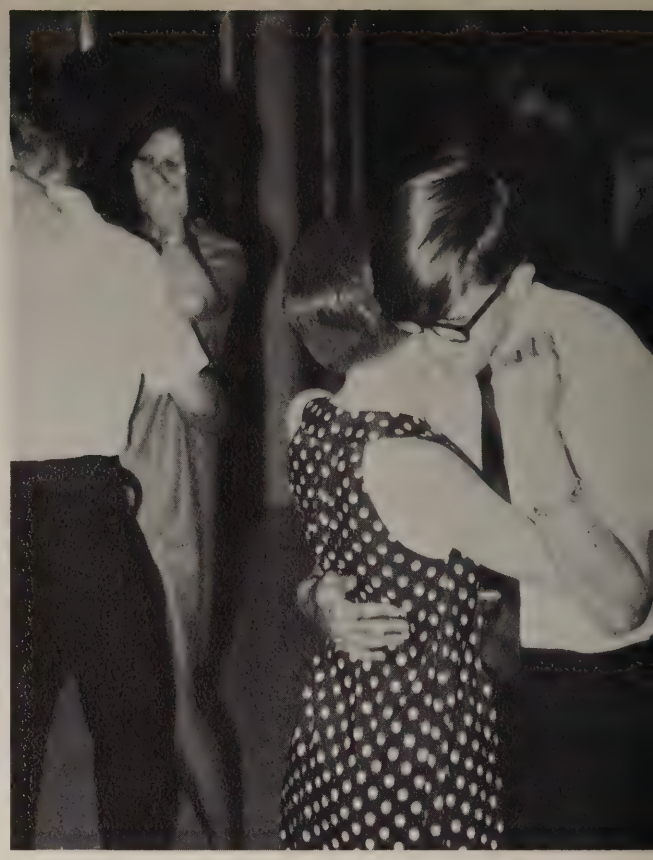
Each of the Stations of the Cross included a pictoral representation of some stage in Christ's suffering, death, and resurrection. They included the setting for his supplications in Gethsemane, the cross on which he suffered, and the open tomb after his joyous resurrection from the dead.

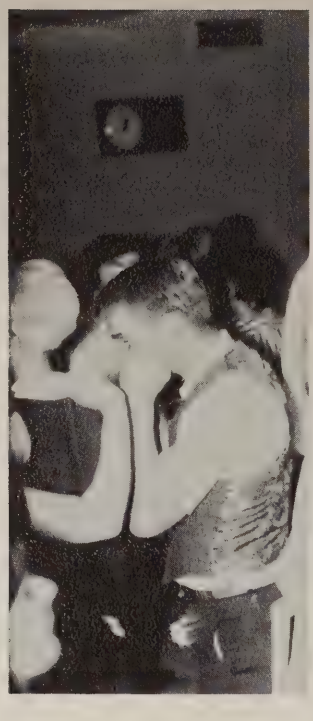




Dinner-Dance New to Underclassmen

Freshmen and Sophomores from Concordia added sparkle to spring when they dressed for their dinner-dance, held the evening of May 10 at Dales and at the new Campus Center. The theme "It Was a Very Good Year" was carried out by decorating five different areas of the Center to depict five different Major activities and seasons of the year. Steve Grupe was privileged to serve as the banquet's master of ceremonies.





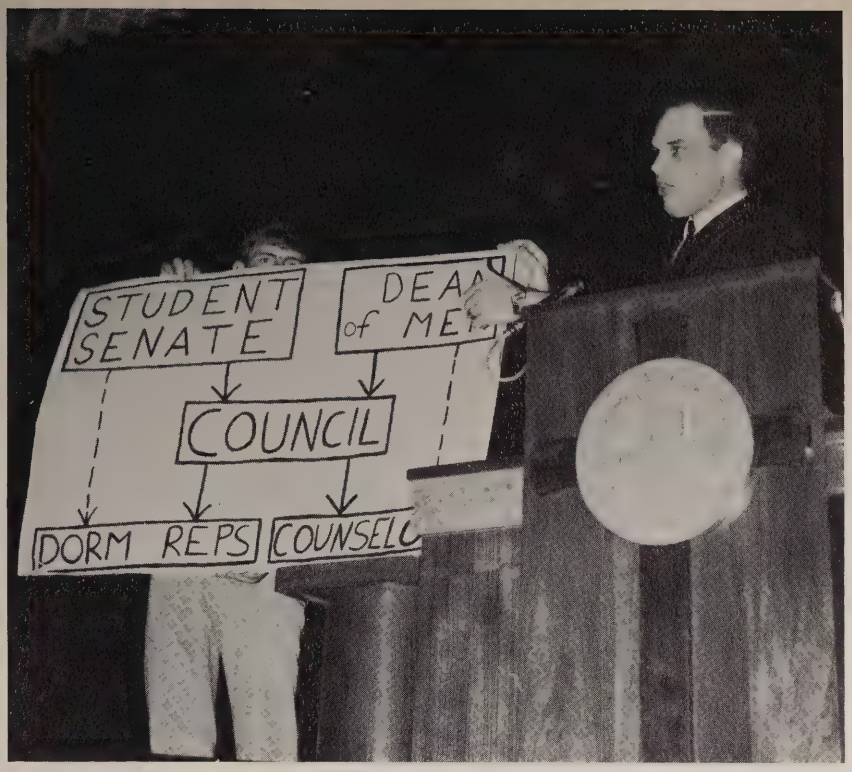
Larry Olsen finds the music a little overwhelming at the all-campus dance.

As the '67-'68 school year drew to a close, mem bers of the student body enjoyed their final all campus activity together during a spring dance in the Campus Center. Hours were extended so that stu dents could enjoy dancing to the accompaniment o several different music groups from Concordia. The evening provided relaxation before a rigorous week of final exams.

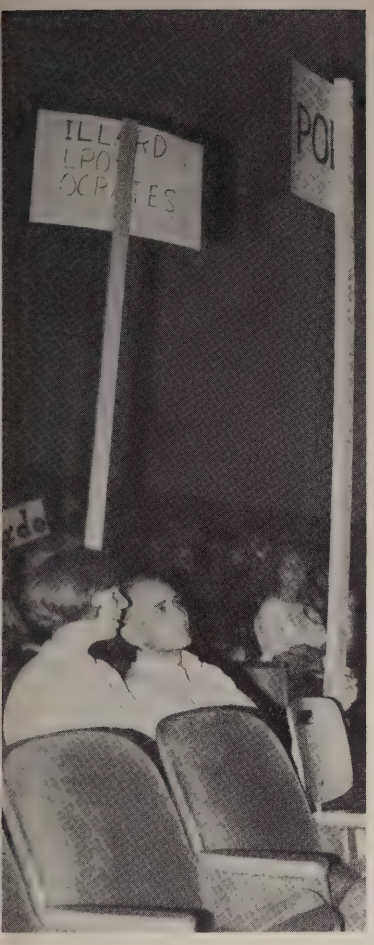
Al Mahnken, Diana Madrid and Rick Bolland take a turn in providing music.

Intramurals Provide for Year-round Recreation

Any student who enjoyed participation in sports activities found he had little trouble keeping physically fit at Concordia. An integrated intramural program provided opportunities for even the most inept to enjoy playing their favorite sport. The '67-'68 program lasted from early fall to late spring and included activities for both men and women. Climaxing the year was a banquet and the announcement of outstanding men's and women's intramural athletes, Ray Mueller and Sandy Miller.



A proposed plan for reorganization is presented by candidate John Schramm.



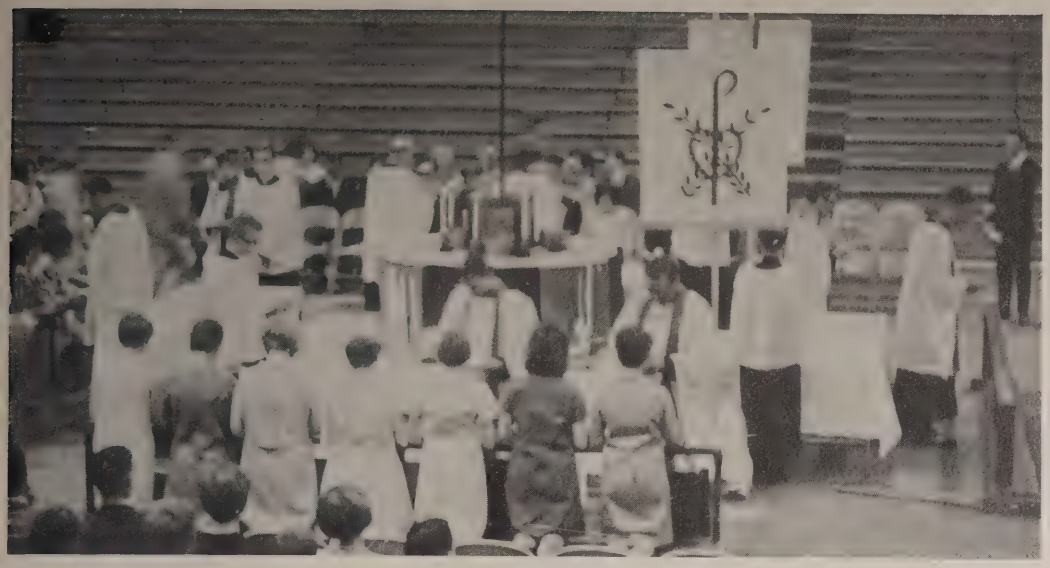
Mary Jo and Rog campaign for the consistent loser, M.E.S. Schmedlap.

Supporters Electioneer

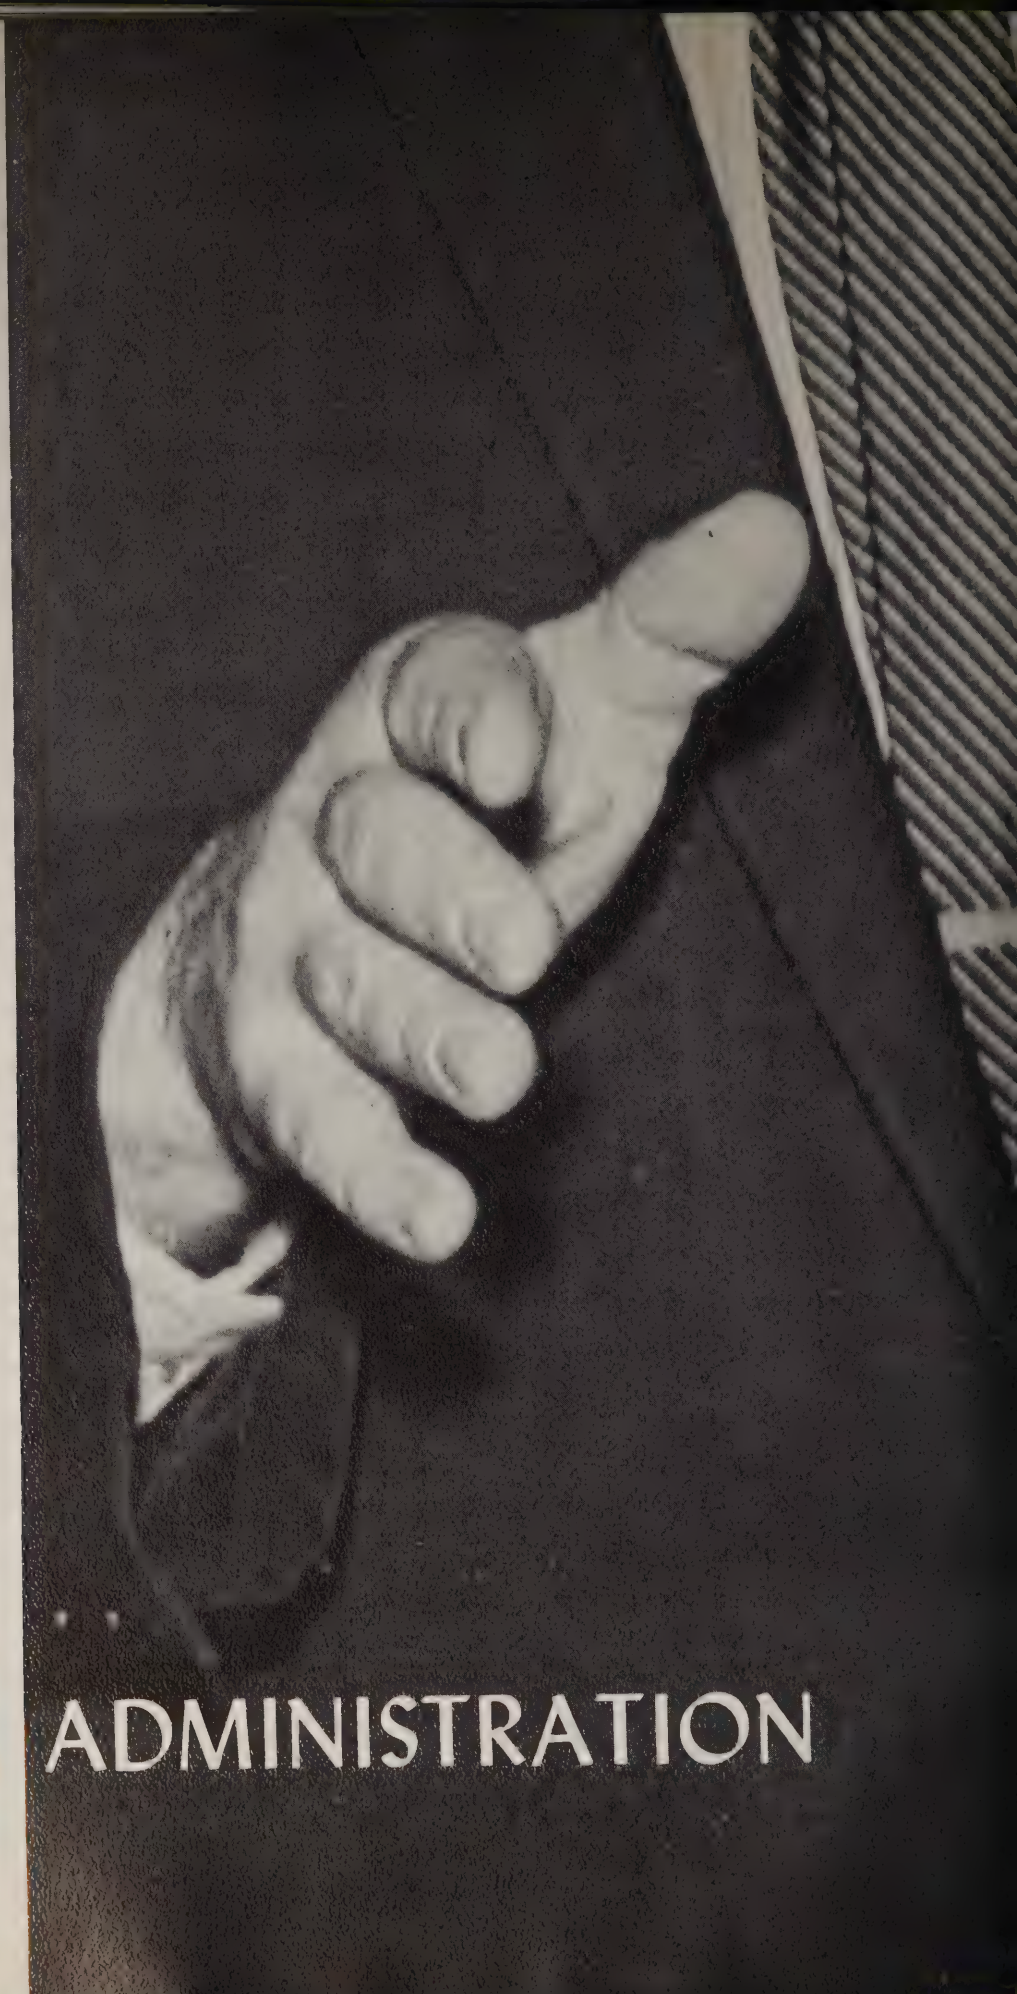
A traditional prelude to student body elections each year is a spirited campaign rally. The spring of 1968 found the candidates electioneering even more vigorously than usual as they attempted to win support. Campaigners for Dave Koopman included Fred Clatanoff, Jim Sohl, Lon Duensing, Bill Haar, Terry Timm, Chuck Bauer, Ron Ahlemeyer, and Bill Killion.

Student Body President, Dan Thurber, happily receives his diploma and degree from President Janzow.

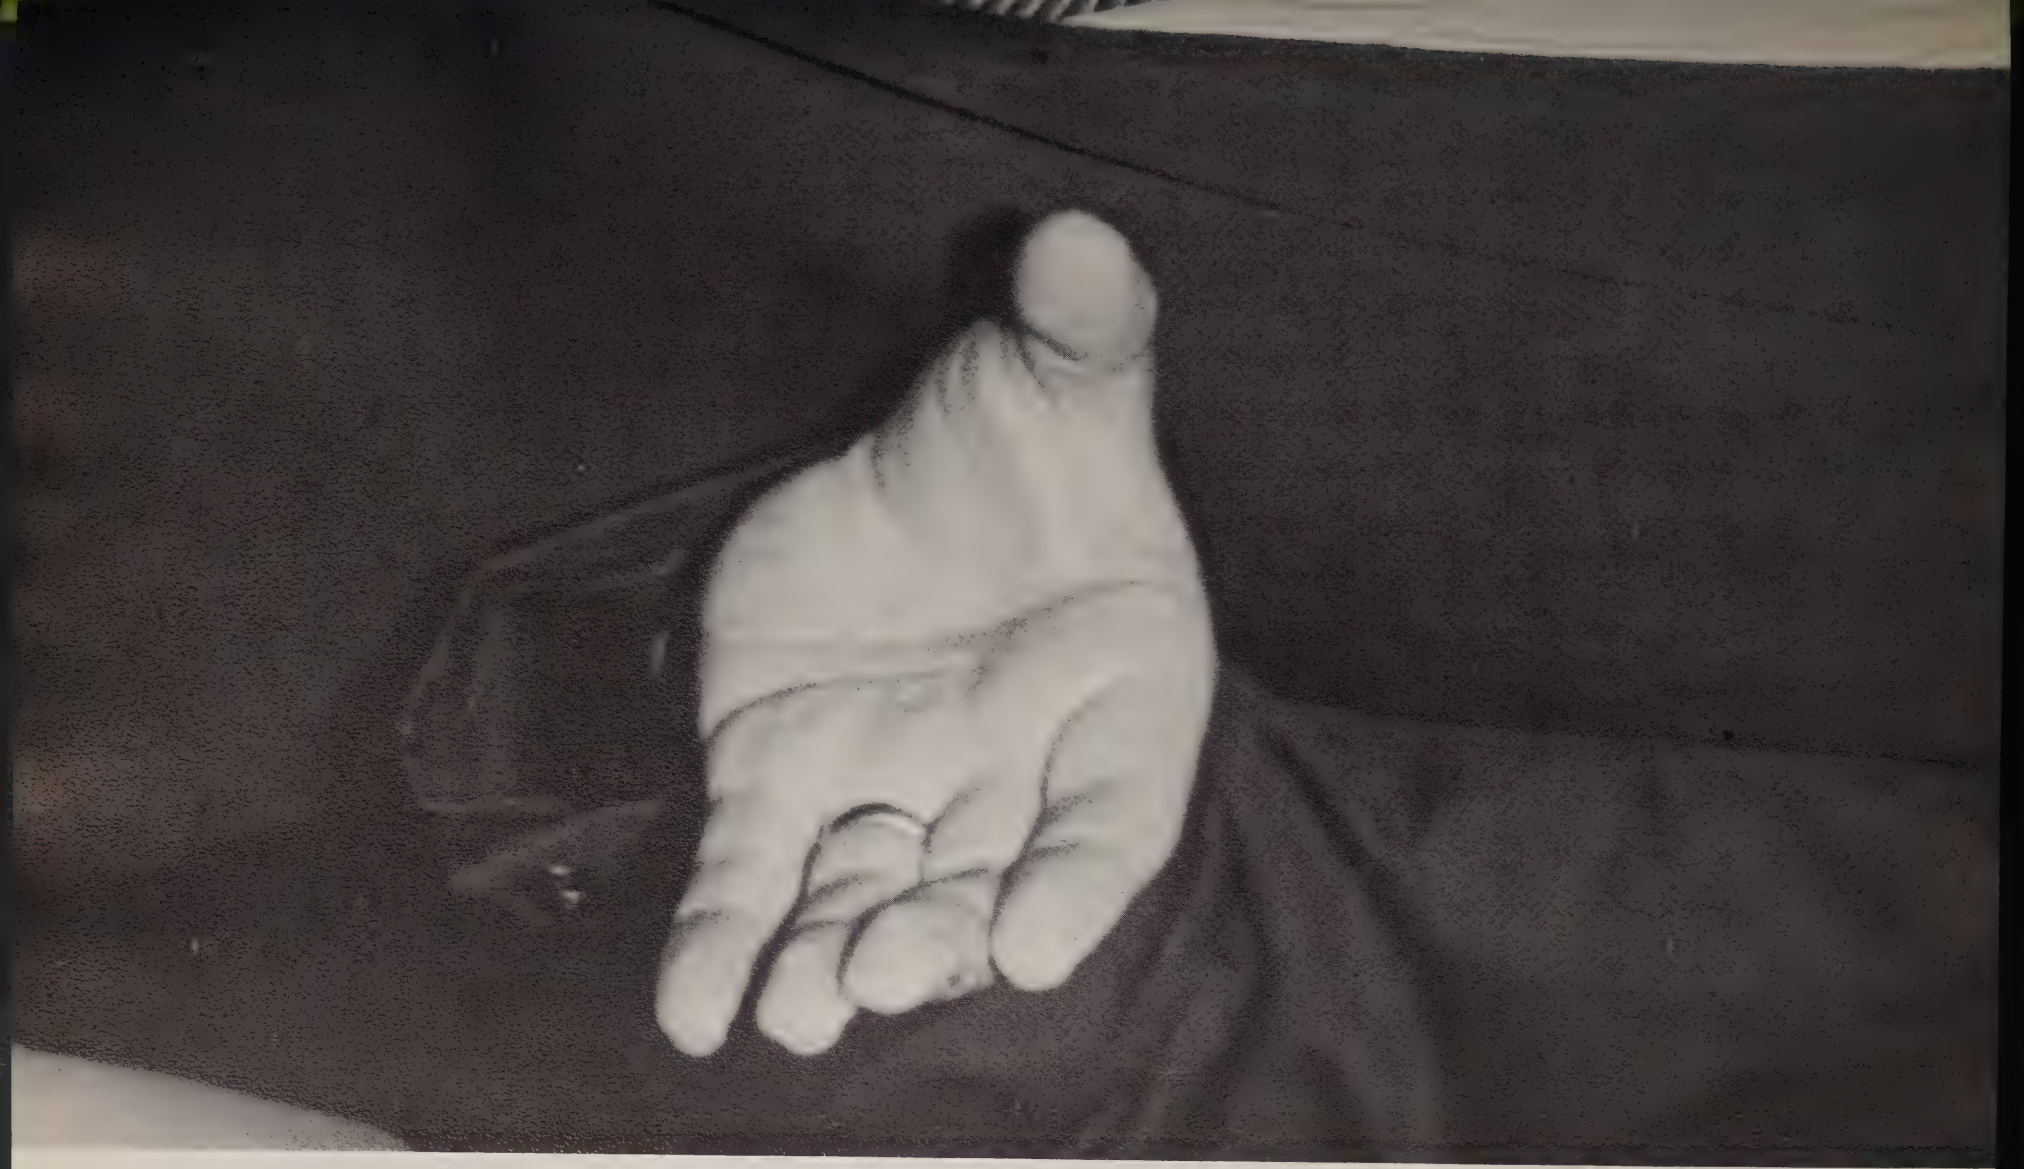
Senior Call Day and Graduation



Months of waiting had terminated and days of anticipation had come to an end — on the evening of May 3, 123 men and 141 women graduates of Concordia received their calls to schools and colleges across the United States and to foreign countries. The nature of the calls was as varied as the talent and the abilities of the men and women receiving them, and reactions ranged the length of the continuum as the graduates pored over the descriptions of what their duties and responsibilities were to be.



ADMINISTRATION



President's Message

Education in the second half of the twentieth century breathes the spirit of excitement. People ascribe to it great powers. A few say it is possible that this is an exaggeration. Yet it is undeniable that education in recent years has taken on new demensions of importance. The world, many feel, is standing on the edge of a cliff. Man is threatening to destroy himself. Somehow he must be taught to use the forces that he has unleashed to lead him, not to destruction, but to a better life. This seems to be the job that faces education.

The great weakness in contemporary education, many feel, is the lack of value and purpose. Over emphasis on objective teaching has led to a vacuum of meaning. If society is to survive, it must have common commitments about the deeper issues of life. It must be willing to teach each new generation to appreciate those things that give to life meaning and purpose.

Concordia Teachers College stands in the front lines of this exciting endeavor. It has clearly defined goals. It operates on the premise that knowledge and appreciation are equally legitimate forces in the dynamics of the classroom. It is our hope and prayer that the graduates who leave these halls will have imbibed this educational philosophy and make it their own.

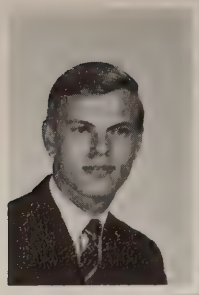
Let God Have His Way



Inga and Burk received the great prize---the high calling of God in Jesus Christ. Yes, the angel visited Concordia's family and found He needed two of our students. "Verily I say unto Thee, Today thou shalt be with Me in Paradise." But they wanted to teach Christ to the little children in His kingdom. "In Thy presence is fullness of joy; at Thy right hand are pleasures forevermore." We are sad because we wanted them to stay with us. We think they were too young and that this was a bad time to take them. We get scared because if it came to them it could come to us also. God encourages and cheers the saddened by His words, "Let not your hearts be troubled. I am the resurrection and life. Believe in Me and I will give unto you eternal life. I am the way. No one will take you from Me. You are Mine."

A car accident near Moberly, Missouri, on October 29, resulted in the death of two Concordia juniors, both transfers from Concordia College, Edmonton, Alberta, this year. Inga Salo of Williams Lake, British Columbia, died instantly as a result of the fatal impact. She is survived by her parents, a brother and four sisters. Funeral services were at St. John Lutheran Church, Williams Lake, B.C., on November 2. On the following day, October 30, Burkhardt Erdtmann, also died of injuries received. Burk is survived by his mother. Funeral services were at St. Matthew Lutheran Church, Calgary, Alberta on November 3.

The accident occurred on a Sunday afternoon as the students were returning to Seward from a Canadian students' gathering held that weekend in St. Louis. A Memorial Service for Inga and Burk was held at Weller Chapel on November 6. President Janzow gave the sermon.

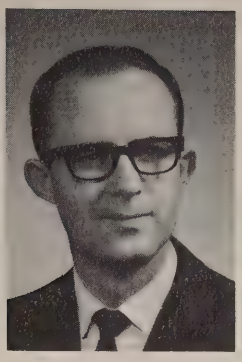
Concordia Expands Graduate Program

Ruth Templemann
Norfolk, Nebraska



Anthony Schkade
San Antonio, Texas

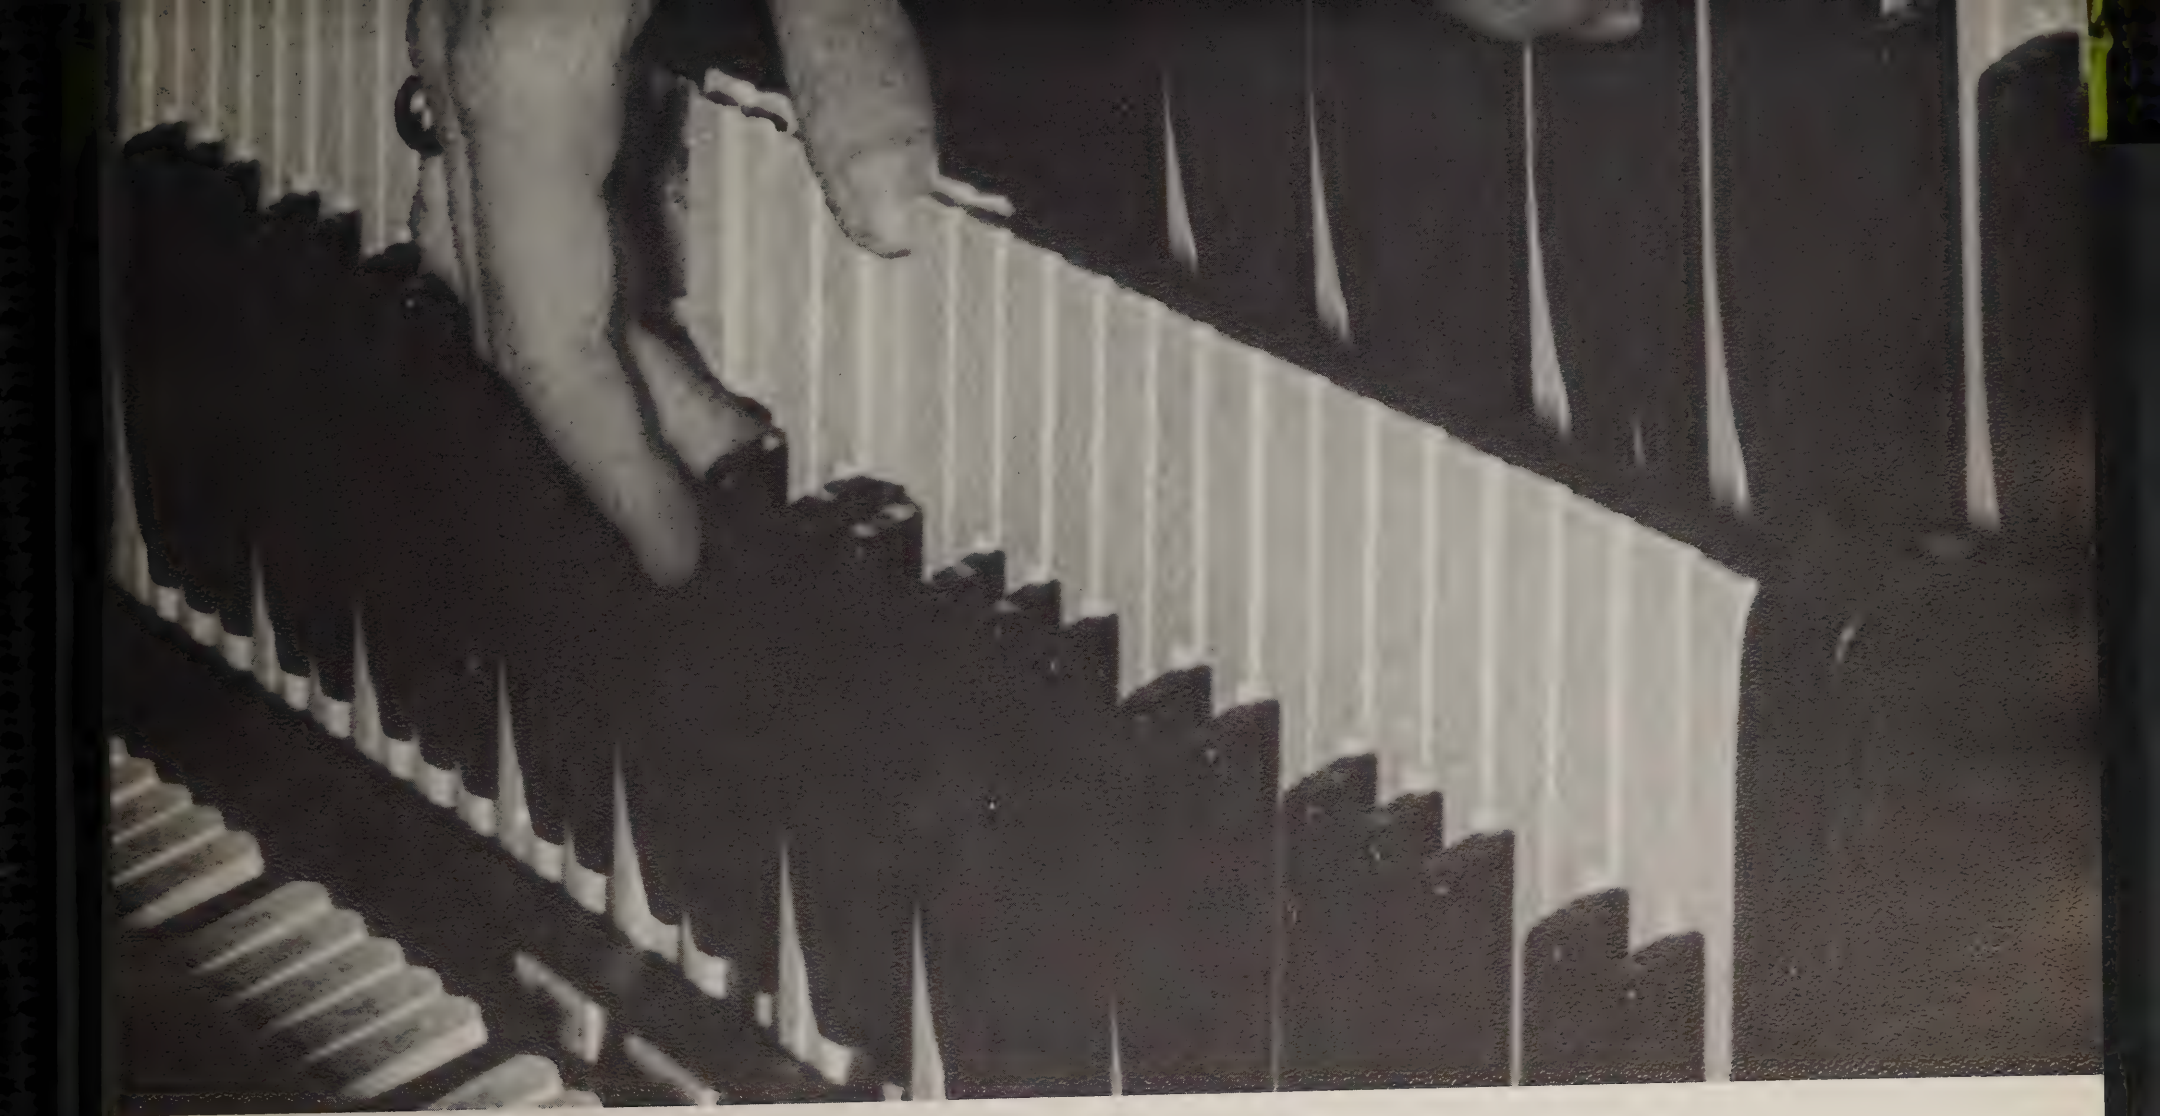
Dr. Martin Kirch, Director of the Graduate Program, talks over the future of the program with Ruth Templemann and Anthony Schkade.

Concordia's graduate and advanced study program, in its second year of operation, had two students on the campus this past year. Mr. Anthony Schkade, in the fifth year of the Director of Christian Education, expects to receive his DCE diploma in June. Miss Ruth Templemann, pursuing the master's degree program, expects to complete her work in summer sessions in 1969.

Concordia's graduate and advanced study program was begun in the summer of 1966 with 34 students enrolled in regular graduate courses and 29 in the NDEA institute. The program received preliminary accreditation in August 1966 from the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools and all programs have since been approved by the Nebraska State Department of Education. The program includes the regular Master of Education degree for elementary teachers, and three five year non-degree programs, the Director of Christian Education and Youth, the Master Classroom Teacher, and the Director of Parish Music. The Masters Degree is offered only during summers while the non-degree programs are available also during the regular year.

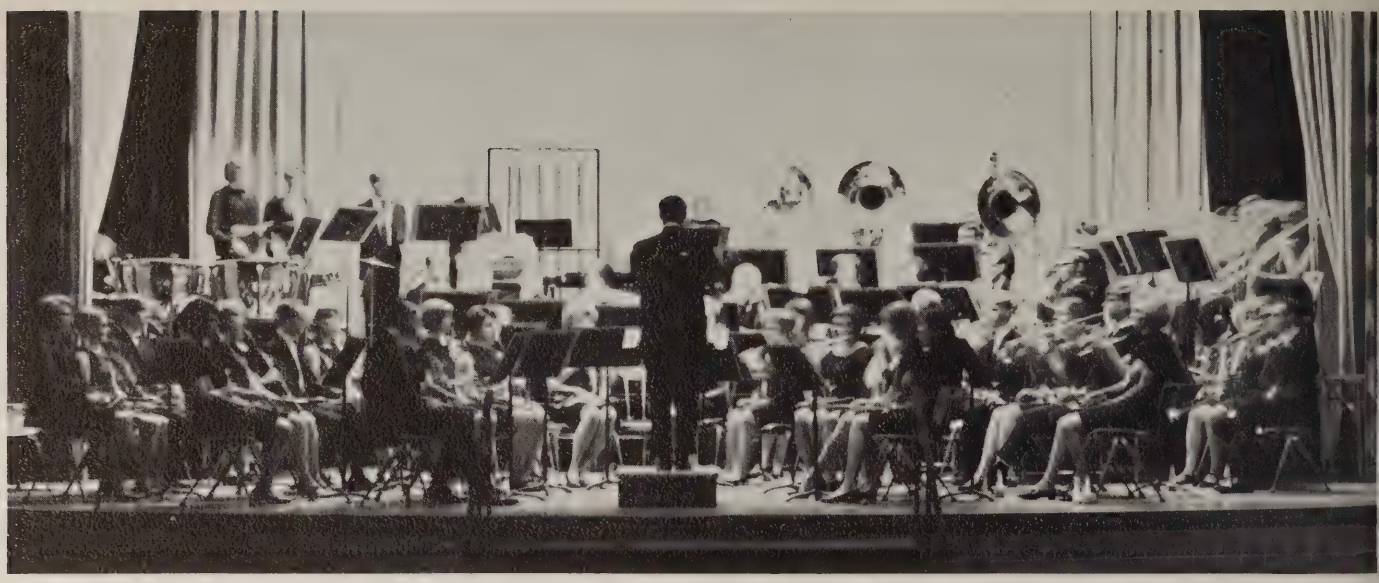
The enrollment had increased to 124 during the 1967 summer sessions with about 70 of these enrolled in one of the regular programs. The enrollment is expected to reach 150 during the 1968 summer with approximately 100 of these pursuing a specific program.

It is expected that four to six will be eligible for the conferring of the Masters Degree in August 1968.



FINE ARTS

Instrumental Groups in Concert



Concordia's band performed several times during the year.

Concordia's band and orchestra perform many times during the school year besides their regular winter and spring concerts. The band provides entertainment for both football and basketball half-time shows. The orchestra accompanies many of the chorale groups at their concerts and chapel performances. The band year was highlighted by their tour through neighboring states.

Members watch music closely awaiting their entrance.

Patti Jantz, junior violinist, actively participates in the spring concert which featured a guest oboist from Lincoln.

Community members are part of Concordia's orchestra.

Presenting Our Country's Music

Freshman Chorale and Concordia Chorale are two groups on campus to which anyone can belong who is interested in singing. The new freshmen, directed by Instructor Broderius, livened up the stage in their spring concert with their square dancing and country music. The Concordia Chorale, directed by Instructor Martens presented some of our nations favorites through the years in history.

The once popular square dance is demonstrated by the Freshman Chorale in their spring concert.

Concordia Chorale male voices are raised in familiar song.

Music Students Present Recitals

Future teachers gain experience and satisfaction in showing the successful results of the many hard hours spent in practicing each of their particular fields of music. Heine Hall provided the setting for many of the enjoyable evenings of instrumental and vocal recitals sharing entertainment for fellow students and faculty members interested in music.

Several organ recital pieces fill the hall with music.

Gilbert Schmidt, Linda Bell, and Charleen Laetsch combining talents to present an oboe trio.

Barbara Russell's flute solo brings some high notes.

Jim Koerschen blows a successful performance with his French horn.

Sharon Werning accompanies Cliff Schulz as he sings his tenor solo.

Faculty Members Have Recitals

Miss Carolyn Lipp, instructor of music, rolls down piano keys.

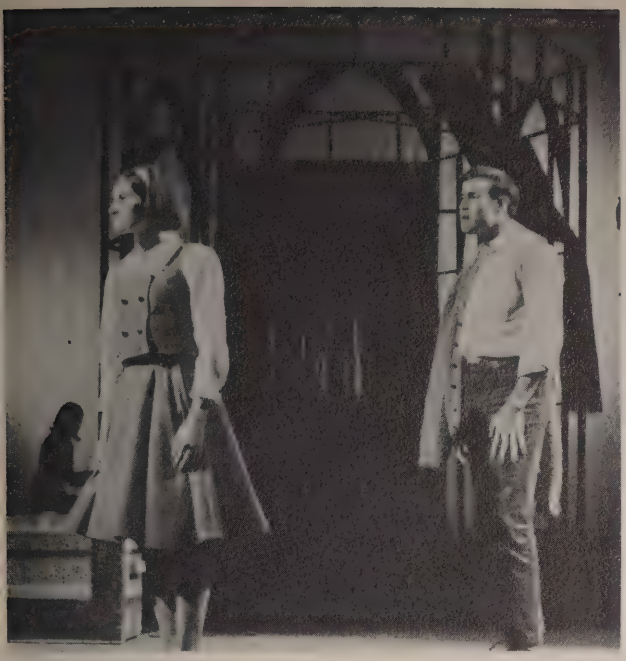
Professor and Mrs. Galen combine their singing talents in a vocal concert.

Faculty members, too, use their varied talents to provide entertainment for students and fellow faculty. These performances are a result of many years of practice to which music students can look to as goals for themselves. Music is an important part of Concordia in worship, curriculum, and special recitals.

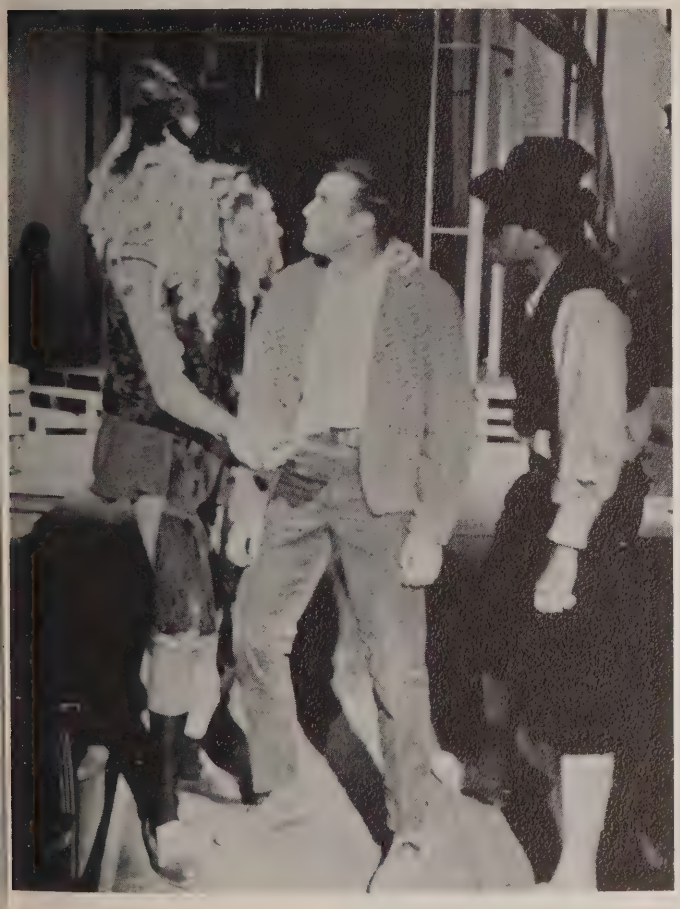
Happiness reigns at last as the reunited Matt and Luisa are viewed by other members of the cast: the Mute, Mira Roeder, the two fathers, Ken Avery and Alan Nielsen, and El Gal John Schultz.

Curtains First "Fantasticks" Production

"The Fantasticks" was the Curtain Club's firs production of the year. This musical drama, writte by Tom Jones and Harvey Schmidt, was directed b Prof. William Roundey. It depicted the trials of tw young lovers, Matt and Luisa, in their quest for un derstanding and maturity. The action was viewe through the eyes of El Gallo, an omniscient narra tor, and portrayed true aspects of life to which w are often blind.



Luisa, Diane Kesselring, maintains her indifference despite the pleadings of her lover, Matt, Larry Menzel.



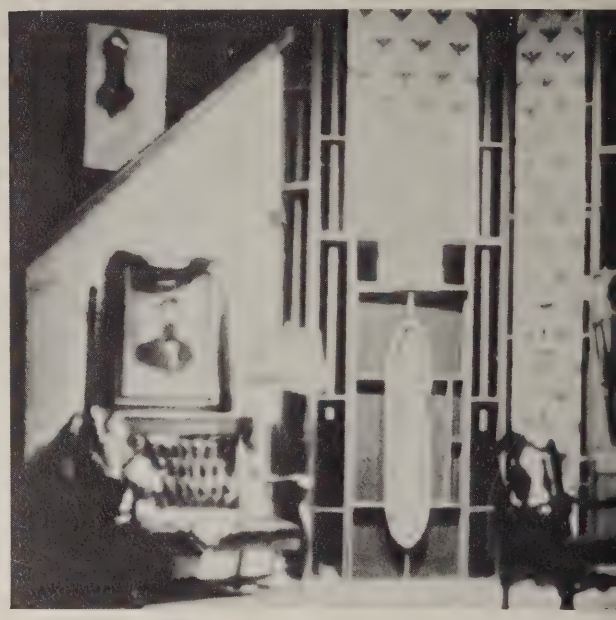
The wonders of the world are described to Matt by Henry, Dick Rehse, and his companion, Mortimer, Ron Tussing.

"It depends on what you pay," sings El Gallo to the two anxious on-looking fathers.

Presenting Arsenic and Old Lace

The month of January brought to the students o Concordia, Curtain Club's hilarious productio of "Arsenic and Old Lace." The highly spirite cast made the production a tremendous success The comical play was written by Joseph Kessel ring and was directed on our stage by Dr. Darrel Meinke. The action centered around the twelv "mercy killings" performed by the two old aunts. Their nephew, Teddy, who thought he wa Teddy Roosevelt, digging the Panama Canal, took the bodies of the victims from the window sea to bury them in the basement. When anothe nephew, Jonathan, and his companion Dr. Ein stein arrived with a dead "friend" problem began to arise. After involving several unor thodox characters and actions, the plot was re solved and concluded with the aunts' thirteenth murder.

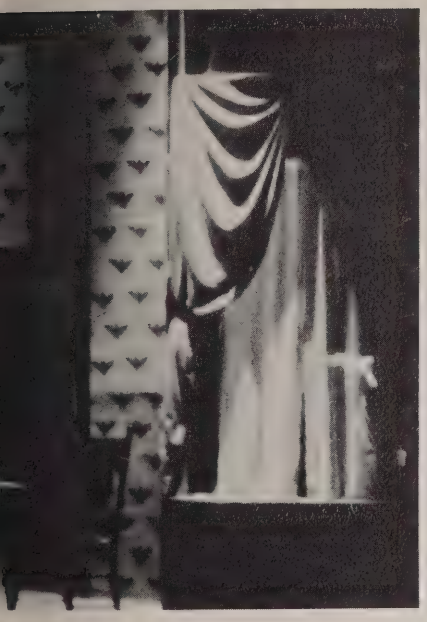
Members of the family gather to pose for their family portrait. They are, Dick Rehse, Jackie Elliott, Dudley Haskell, Merna Roeder, Dan Thurber, and Vergean Friedricks.



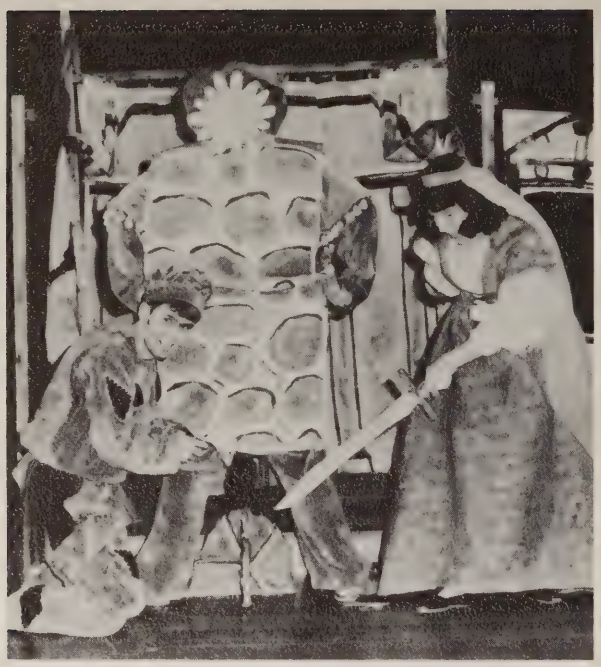
Something strange is going on and Dan Thurber is determined to make his aunts tell him.

Dan Thurber, as an energetic and curious reporter found out too much and is gagged by his own brother, Jonothan, and his little doctor friend.

The scene of the crime.



"Mr. Teddy Roosevelt" heads for the Panama Canal.



The search ends when Isabella, Margaret Rittenour, and Androcles, Ken Avery, find the bag of gold near the "garden wall?"

Young Androcles, Ken Avery, comes to the aid of the distressed lion in the woods by removing a thorn from his paw.

"Androcles"-A Children's Play

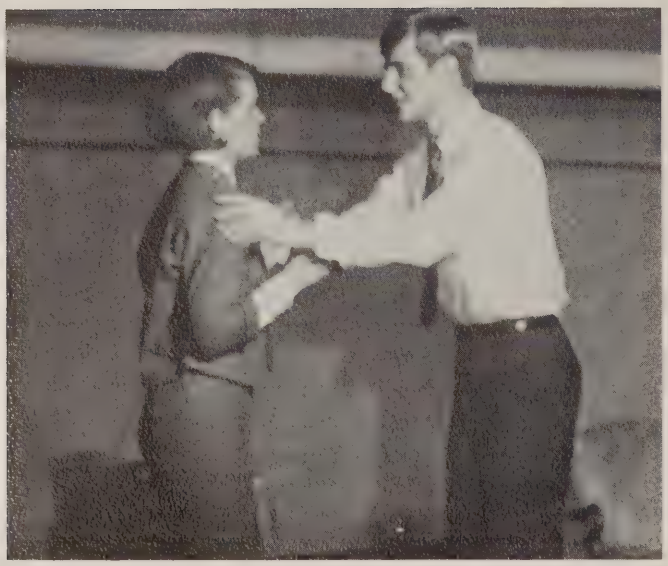
Androcles races the messages back and forth between the two lovers, Lelio, Bret Bollmann, and Isabella, Margaret Rittenour, completely unnoticed by the miser Pantalone, Dan Dase, slowly but eagerly counting his gold.

A surprised Androcles and his lion friend, Alan Nielsen are reunited after several encounters.

"Androcles and the Lion" is a children's play directed on our campus by Prof. Roundey. It was presented throughout Iowa and Nebraska on the annual tour made by Concordia's children's theater touring company. The production was also given at the Workshop in Creative Dramatics and Children's Theater held on the campus in March. The play is based on the legend of a Roman slave, Androcles, and his unusual friendship with a lion in the forest. It shows how Androcles found his freedom in the act of serving others.

One Act Plays Directed

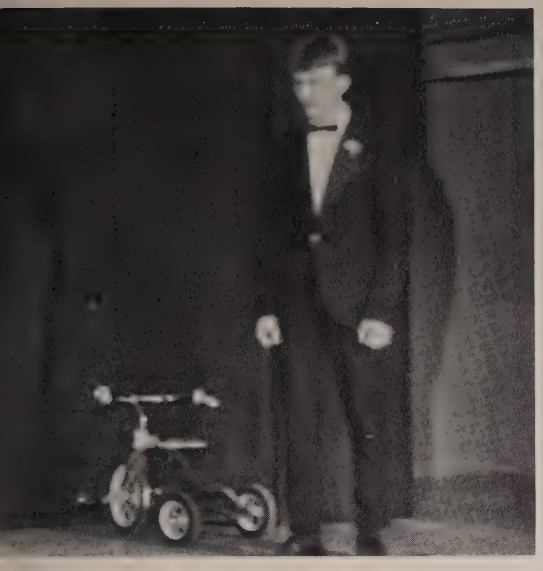
James Polk, Howard Barth, serves as witness in the investigation to Orko, Warren Frank, Senator Versipel, Alan Nielson, and Froth, Jim Schwartzkopff.



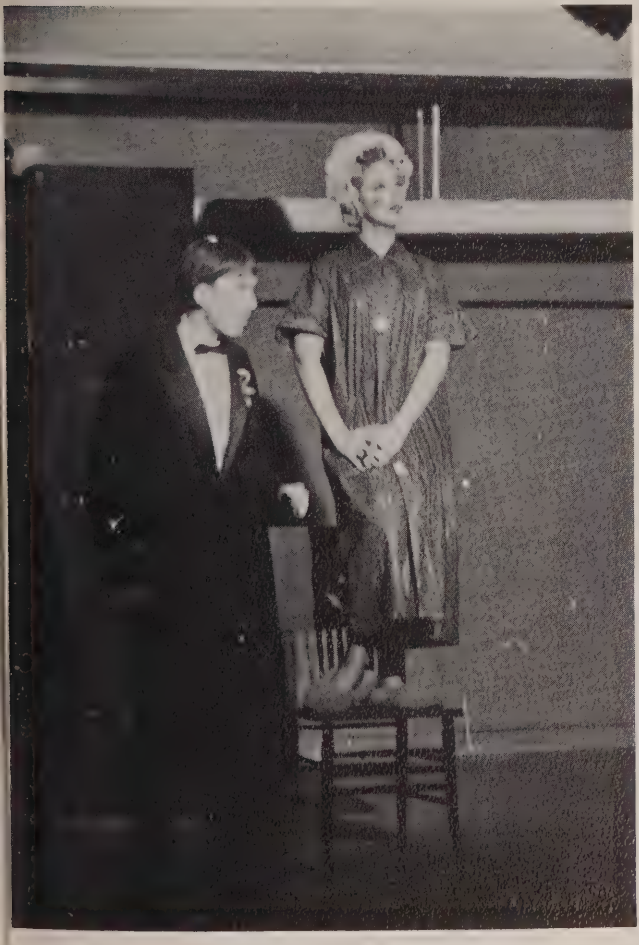
Cradeau, Bret Bollmann, seeks to convince Inez, Joan Streesman, that there is another girl he loves.

Inez interferes with the lovemaking between Cradeau and his Estello, Virgean Friedricks.

by Six Students for Honors



Six One-act plays were presented this year under the direction of students working for an honors drama credit under the supervision of Prof. Roundey. The plays were each presented for several nights in the Mueller's experimental theater. The atmosphere was very casual as the audiences sat in chairs or on the floor. Informal discussions of the play followed each night's performance in which the audience was asked to join. The six plays presented were: "The Chairs"- Paul Wollank, "Picnic on the Battlefield"- John Schylz, "Hello Out There"- Margi Rittenauer, "No Exit"- Dick Rehse, "The Informer"- Dottie Gugel, "The Pit"- Ken Avery.



Polk advises Froth not to become involved in helping the little girl.

Poor Froth is under the domination of his wife, Cheryl Tomac.

Lyceums Bring Culture to Campus

The Don Cossack Chorus and Dancers present a program of Russian and American folk songs and dances.

Concordia's lyceum program extends to the students a variety of speakers and performances to broaden their cultural background. This year is no exception in having provided something to satisfy everyones particular taste, from the Don Cossack Dancers, to presidential candidate, Harold Stassen. The students and faculty listened to topics on art, world relations, music of foreign lands, and a variety of others. These programs give Concordians a needed supplement to classes and available news media.

Dr. Sally Monsour of the University of Colorado, speaks at the first fall workshop of the year with her presentation on "The Total Music Program."

Danial Llord's "International" one-man marionette show combines the finest in concert and theater entertainment.

This curious-looking individual is the product of Creighton University's Father Leland Lubbers.

Presidential candidate, Harold Stassen, pays a visit to Concordia while on his spring campaign trail.

Advent

Pulsing green on brightening blues
Promise the advent of fresh new hues
Early rain clings to the air like a mad absession
Pungent growth follows the aroma in the mind's procession
In long expectation for the warmth to arrive.
At last in ecstasy I know I am alive
So I cry in joy daring it to begin
A mocking bird answers and Spring rushes in.

Rise Up, My Love!

In a night-blue bed ·
With yellow coverlet
Diana pushes past her hair
And sings a song of sweet night.

She lets her feet be led
And satin, golden veils be set;
She gently glides the sliver stair
And turns her body to the light.

my self don't know

the reason

that I should be born

and left without

who knows why

I should never know the joy of love

a family brings and sits as ¿ Quien Es Mi Amigo?

TRANSLATION: Who Is My Friend?

1. I am a stranger.
I have neither a house
Nor a horse that I can call my own.

2. I have no money
Food comes with the
Work that I do
With my own hands.
I am always Alone with my Thoughts

3. Who is my Friend?
Only God, who
Gives me all
That I need.

The passing of life from hope to dejection, from joyous companionship to cold rejection; from care of self to degradation; it is ugly, and I don't like what I see, so ugly. Jealousy, sloth, laziness, gluttony, cheating, lying, hate, thanklessness, remorse, stubbornness, and then to look at God and say, "Forgive me, Lord." This, this is the greatest of all miracles, that He should love me, forgive me, take me for his own, after I have forgotten Him laughed at Him, rejected Him. And yet, never did He retaliate, but simply says, "Come unto me!"

Tatia

Darkling purples lance the ends
Of gold pricked green, and green stung brown;
With mist, the dew-hing woodbine bends—
The supple buds pull in, then down.

Kind nectar's circles meet in soft,
And pulse of sweet and smooth and firm
Slides silk into the nestling loft
And blindly seeks its velvet term.

Swift arrows loosed of misty rock
On dampened web and covert fall....
Till sparrows, drunk with dew man mock
The dreams of men when forests call.

Through A Glass Darkly

I was driving home. It was three in the morning.
Then looking into the moonless night
And peering into a dark field,
A vision was revealed to me.
No supernatural spirits did I see,
Nor any thundering voice did I hear;
Only, for a moment,
The oncoming headlights
Failed to blind me
And I saw what I didn't understand.

In the field beyond the wire fence
There seemed to be diffused beams of light.
I guess there were twenty, maybe more,
Wandering aimlessly through the dark;
They seemed to run
In endless circles and angles.
They were as blind men carrying lights
Vaguely pointing to the sky.
I didn't know what this meant, it only
Seemed pathetic — blind men carrying dim lights in a dark meadow.

What could they be looking for?
Are they afraid of the dark?
— but they're blind!
Are they looking for a light purer than their own?
— but they can't see!
Do they search for a vague memory?
— had they never seen light,
I'm told they wouldn't fear the dark.
And what pure light could they be seeking?
— at night only stars
and glowworms give light
when there is no
sun or moon.

— but you don't find stars with searchlights.
— and you don't find glowworms with flashlights.

BUT THEN FACE TO FACE

God, the Creator, speaks not in earthquakes
—nor is His light in the sun.
God, the Almighty, speaks not in the storm
—nor is His brilliance in the lightening flash.

— a still, small voice
— a star, a glowworm.

Blind man, when you're given sight
Turn off your light
And cast your eyes
To God's peaceful
Nighttime skies
And rest!
And rest.
And rest.

Student Senate Coordinates Ideas

Special emphasis was placed on achieving real communication between the faculty and student body during the senate term. The student government worked to bring out any problems that arose, evaluated them, and tried to find the best possible solution. Senate continued its program of sponsoring a tutoring service for any CTC student who wanted help. They again published the student directory. Great effort was made by the student government to establish the policies for the Student Center. Throughout the year the representatives from each class have worked to gain the most possible for all Concordians.

Student Senate welcomes incoming second semester students with a special dinner to help them become acquainted with their new governing body, and encourage them to participate in student affairs.

Various subcommittees of Concordia's student government concern themselves with specialized interests and problems of the students.

The Spiritual Life Committee has made itself heard to all students this year with their increased efforts to make the devotional life at Concordia the best possible. Experiments were conducted to determine the desires of the students for the chapel attendance.

The Activities Committee has been a vital part of the Student Senate this year as they organized with great success activities for several big weekends.

The Public Relations Committee has worked hard keeping the students informed concerning all matters of importance to them.

SLEA and YLTG Prepare Students For Future Work with Youth

Two organizations that strive to aid Concordia students to better understand and prepare themselves for their future work are known as the YLTG and SLEA.

The Youth Leadership Training Group is interested in giving students valuable insights into youth work on the parish level. Guided by Dr. Jurgensen, the group achieved these goals by engaging special speakers to talk on different aspects of youth work.

The Student Lutheran Education Association is the professional organization on campus. The emphasis of the group is on the Lutheran Teachers and Christian Education. Members become familiar with the Nebraska Education Association. The activities of this year included a panel of first year teachers from the surrounding area who shared their experiences upon beginning their new career. Special guest Mr. LeRoy Leland gave the group many interesting insights concerning education in Africa. An exciting project of the SLEA was the workshop, co-sponsored with the Human Relations Club, studying teachers in the inner city.

Editors Eileen Pipho and Joyce Fullner discuss faculty pages.

Spending long hours planning and preparing pages for the annual, the Tower staff combines various talents to produce the college's yearly publication. The staff, composed of members from all four classes, works together in making their individual sections fit the theme. Layouts, copy, and photographs all must be completed to meet the staff and the publisher's deadlines. Emphasizing the student's life and activities, we feel our book summarizes your " '67-'68 year at Concordia."

Staff members check the basic steps towards advancing production of the annual with advisor, Professor Wiegmann.

Ruth Geisler and Steve Arnold prepare layouts for the next week's edition of the Sower.

This year's Sower, which worked with an expanded staff, was able to produce a bigger and better weekly newspaper for the Concordia students.

The new face for the paper was made possible through the efforts of the staff and under the leadership of editor, Jerry Saller, with the assistance of Miss Schroeder as sponsor.

The staff's spirit and enthusiasm appeared throughout the student body, resulting in a wider circulation than ever before. Through this new and better production, both the students and faculty have been able to express their views and opinions, and have, thus, been better informed about the news of the campus and its students.

Providing a means for students to learn more about the government by participating in the activities of their political parties has been one of the main objectives of the Young Republican and Young Democrat organizations this year. Members of both clubs have done much to encourage the residents of both the campus and surrounding communities to vote in the coming election. All students were given an opportunity to express their presidential preferences and opinions on key issues in a poll called "Choice '68." Conducted through the combined efforts of both YR's and YD's and sponsored by Time magazine, student opinions were compared from over 1200 campuses all over the United States.

C.T.C. Students Develop Voices

Members of Concordia Speakers strive to develop the talent which every good teacher must have and use wisely. This active group works toward excellence in both expository speaking and oral interpretation. This year one of the events sponsored by the club that was of special interest to students was the presentation of views on the United States policy in Viet Nam. This discussion was presented by a panel of students from Yankton College, South Dakota.

The Human Relations and International Relations Clubs strive to make students aware of the people and places around them.

The Human Relations Club sponsored by Rev. Lange and under the leadership of Samuel Cosby, has achieved many new and varied goals this year, striving for better understanding of people and inter-group relations. The club has gained much through the activities and excellent speakers representing foreign graduate students.

The International Relations Club sponsored by Prof. Pfabe strives to keep students informed on issues of international affairs. Lead by President Russell Benning, members of the club endeavor to be well informed and better able to understand the problems and affairs of our country and its involvement with people around the world.

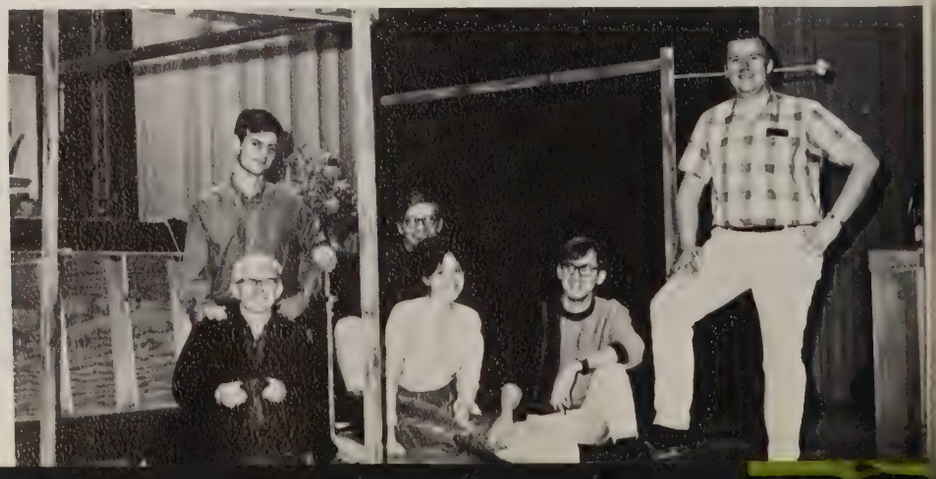
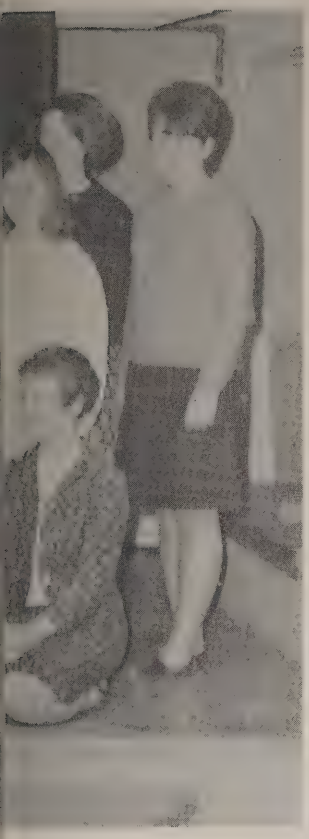
Cast for "Androcles and the Lion" prepare for their mid-western tour.





Dan Thurber becomes involved in the comedy-murder plot of "Arsenic and Old Lace".

Curtain Club Works Hard on Plays

"The Fantastics," "Arsenic and Old Lace," and "Androcles and the Lion" head the list of productions for the drama society on Concordia's campus this year. The Curtain Club is under the direction of Professor W. Roundey. These plays emphasized many new techniques, especially in the area of staging. The fall musical presentation of "The Fantastics" delighted all who attended, and the antics of the two little widows and their arsenic kept audiences well entertained. After a successful production for Concordia students the "Androcles and the Lion" crew and cast presented the play on an extended tour throughout the mid-West.

Kophos Trains to Teach Deaf

Kophos Club, formerly known as Deaf Missions, concentrates on training to teach deaf children. The members work on their sign language at each meeting and practice what they have learned on their outings. This year's highlights were the trip to the Iowa State School for the Deaf, and visits to the deaf congregation in Omaha.

Literary Efforts Form Potpourri

The Literature Club is an organization which provides a forum for discussion about literature for anyone interested. Meeting once a month under the leadership of Pastor Nelesen, its members concern themselves with works ranging from those of Updike and Ginsberg to their own anthology, Potpourri. All Concordians are encouraged to submit original literary works and the best are selected by members of the Lit Club to be published each spring.

Camera Club Strives for Excellence

The members of Camera Club are Concordians who are interested in various aspects of photography and want to learn new and fascinating skills in that field. These students strive to improve in their skills of technique, developing, enlarging and printing the film they shoot. This year the club has gained additional facilities with the use of a new darkroom in the campus center.

AGO Sponsors Organ Workshop

Activities of the American Guild of organists for the 1967-68 school year included attendance at several recitals, including an E. Power Biggs concert in Lincoln, and the presentation of two organ recitals by members of the group. In conjunction with the organ department, the AGO conducted an organ workshop for all organ students and for neighboring AGO chapters. The guests were organologist Paul Bunjes from Concordia, River Forest and recitalist Richard Enright from Northwestern University.

MENC Students Look to Future

Concordia's student chapter of the Music Educators National Conference has a yearly program to help prepare students for music classes when they enter the teaching profession. Through many discussions and speakers the members of the group gain ideas in music techniques in the elementary and secondary level.

Bill Gasau presents ideas in music education to interested MENC members.

Kings Men Travel for Concert

The King's Men Glee Club has achieved much this year toward their goal of praising God in song. A special concert, the first sung outside the state of Nebraska, highlighted this year's Concert performances. Open to any Concordia male who enjoys singing, this group sings for chapel and Sunday services as well as presenting their concerts.

Concordia's select tour choirs filled the Midwest with songs of praise in evidence of their living faith.

Under the direction of W. Broderius, Concordia Singers the chapel choir at CTC has been very active this year Their presentations were not limited to singing in worship and chapel services. The highlights this year included tours to the Denver and Chicago-Milwaukee areas. The tours focused on singing for both young and old, and ranged from Bach to modern jazz.

The A Cappella Choir, directed by Dr. H. Giesselman traveled 2700 miles filling seven Midwestern states with songs of praise on their spring tour. Their presentations included such pieces as Bach's double choir Motet, "Be Not Afraid" and Dr. Theo. Beck's Easter anthem, "Christ is Arisen." Special highlights of the year included the reformation concert in Omaha and the filming of several television services.

With Christ as the center of all activities, the Choirs will continue to grow in faith and understanding while singing to His glory.

Concordia Singers, Bob Achterberg and Marty Wessler, prepare for the concert to be given at the communion call service.

The instruments of the Band, Orchestra and Recorder Society bring harmony through music to the Concordia Campus. Increasing in both membership and enthusiasm this year, the students of each of the respective organizations practice long hours to perfect their talents.

The band, under the direction of Professor Arthur Fliege, has a membership of about sixty students this year. The Recorder Society works under the excellent leadership of Professor E. Martens; and the Orchestra of nearly thirty members is guided by Professor Charles Krutz.

In addition to their sacred and secular concert performances, the instruments can very often be heard in the worship services accompanying the students in their praise.

Chi Rho: A Witness to Al

Chi Rho is a mission organization designed to aid students in gaining a new insight into spreading the Gospel on campus and in neighboring towns and cities. Its purpose as expressed by its members is to put their faith to work by serving others. This entails the learning of the mission and purpose of the church itself. Special activities included Mission Emphasis Week which highlighted the mission work in India this year. There was much activity with the three main old folks homes in the area along with the regular visits to the State Mental Hospital. Sunday School teaching, counseling, witnessing, and working with the Job Corps in Lincoln were also features of this year in Chi Rho. New activities were introduced and attempted successfully and will be carried on during next year in the Chi Rho program.

Gamma Delta Sponsors Talent Fests

Pastor Schmidt and members of the Gamma Delta enjoyed a weekend retreat filled with much learning, worship, fellowship and fun.

The group known to all Concordians as the Walther League has taken on a new name and a new face this year. The group, now called Gamma Delta, has been very active this year helping members to learn much about the leadership in the congregation and providing many opportunities for Concordia students to grow in faith and fellowship with their classmates.

Major activities of the club this spring included the Junior and Senior talent Festivals. Several hundred grade school and high school students displayed tremendous talents in many fields. The youngsters were not only able to present their abilities, but also enjoyed the day they spent with Concordia students in Christian fellowship and fun.

Concordia Women and Veterans Grow in Knowledge and Fellowship

The Eagles and Anchors is a club formed to provide fellowship for students who were once members of the Armed Services. Members of this organization serve as members of the color guard at CTC football games, and participate in special chapel services as well as constantly serving as outstanding examples of good Christian citizens.

Sigma Gamma Tau, open to all CTC coeds, is concerned with the social graces of the women while here on campus and later in their profession as Lutheran teachers. They helped the coeds grow in knowledge of their feminine role by sponsoring a Christmas Tea and later in the year, a style show to introduce the new and becoming fashions for this season.

Enlarges Science Academy

The Concordia Collegiate Academy of Science is open to all students interested in any of the science fields. By expanding their programs, the academy has succeeded in presenting interesting forums on such subjects as "Evolution" and "Molecular Models". Presenting these forums to interested students were professors from our campus, Concordia students, and several guest speakers. Emphasizing practical science education, the group sponsored a Science Fair for students from the surrounding area.

Lettermen Excell

In Various Fields

Concordia "C" Club, limited in membership to those men who have earned a varsity letter in one of the major sports, seeks to be influential in promoting good sportsmanship in all sports activities. This year the group has been active in many areas other than sports events. In November the club sponsored an Ambassadors for Christ trip to Omaha. Each Sunday evening at the Communion service the members provide the ushers. During the various sports seasons the "C" men sold concessions for all who attended the games. From these proceeds they purchased an exercise and weight machine for the Physical Education department. The group concluded the active year of service by holding a dinner-dance late in May.

Rod Voelker led Concordia's Bulldogs in impres sive plays during the '68 season as co-captain of th football team.

Backin' the Hustling Bulldogs

Yell leader Tim Ebendick aids the cheerleaders with a mighty shout.

Concordia Cheerleaders led this year's Pep Club to a fun filled and enthusiasm packed season. Before many of the games the Pep Club kept Concordians "Backin' the Bulldogs" with posters and booster tags. Several rallies helped to build spirit before the games and also early in the season helped new students to become familiar with the Bulldog songs and yells. At all the games the Pep Club along with the Cheerleaders helped to lead the student body to support their team and represent their school.

Cheerleaders Ginger Steinbach, Judy Roschke, Marti Taylor, Jeanne Chastonay, and Susie Hollrah, lead students in cheering their team.

The Bulldogs, who finished with a 2-7 season, are led by co-captains Jim Young and Rod Voelker. Jim Young, named Most Valuable player, broke all the school pass receiving records. Voelker was their backbone on Concordia's offensive and defensive linement. Both players were on all conference selection. Although the Bulldog season was marked with more than its share of depressing situations the team possessed an unconquerable spirit which led them to their impressive upset over an highly favored Wesleyan in the final game by a score of 21-0. The Bulldogs were headed by coaches Ronald (Hawk) Harms, John (Sid) Seevers, Gary (Steiny) Steinmiller, and Larry (Buba) Oetting.

Head coach, Ron Harms, and the bench, watch as the reserves clinch a well-deserved Homecoming victory over Northwestern.

Linebacker Gene Zobel stops the Yankton Ballcarrier as Concordia's defense holds.

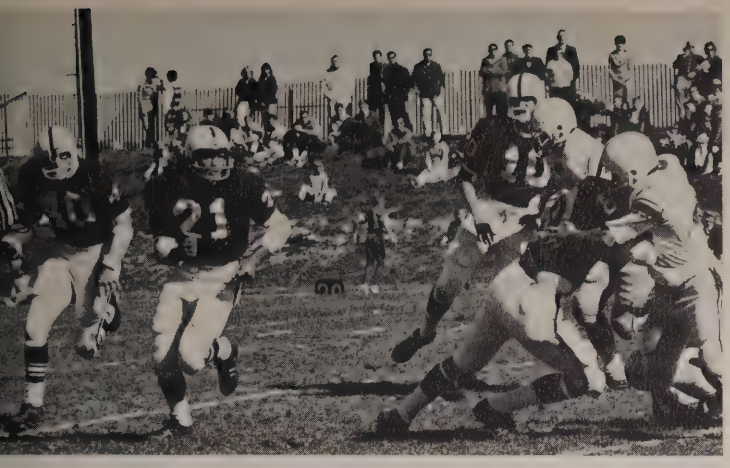
Rick Grauer consults coach Harms for the strategy to be used in the next defensive move.

Concordia's ace punter, Jerry Willer, displays his great form as he kicks one of his many good punts down the field.

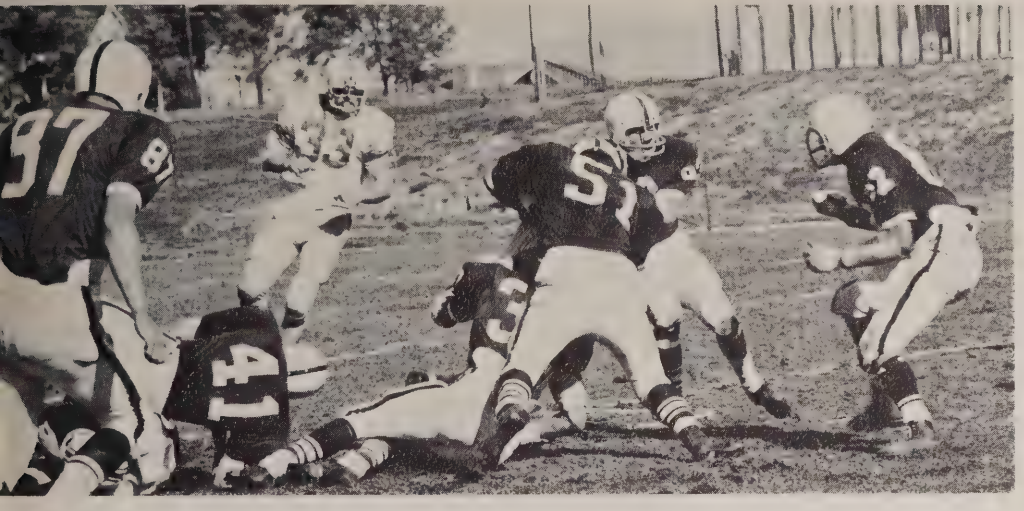
The "I" Comes to Concordia

The welcomed relaxation of half time is taken as second half strategy is planned.

Concordia's ace running back, Jim Widyn, rushes through a large hole against Northwestern.



Blocking back, Howard Voelker, heads the Bulldog play and halfback Jim Widyn scampers for a long gain in yardage.



And suddenly there was with the Northwestern ballcarrier, a host of Concordia tacklers, stopping the ballcarrier and saying, "Nice tackle, men."

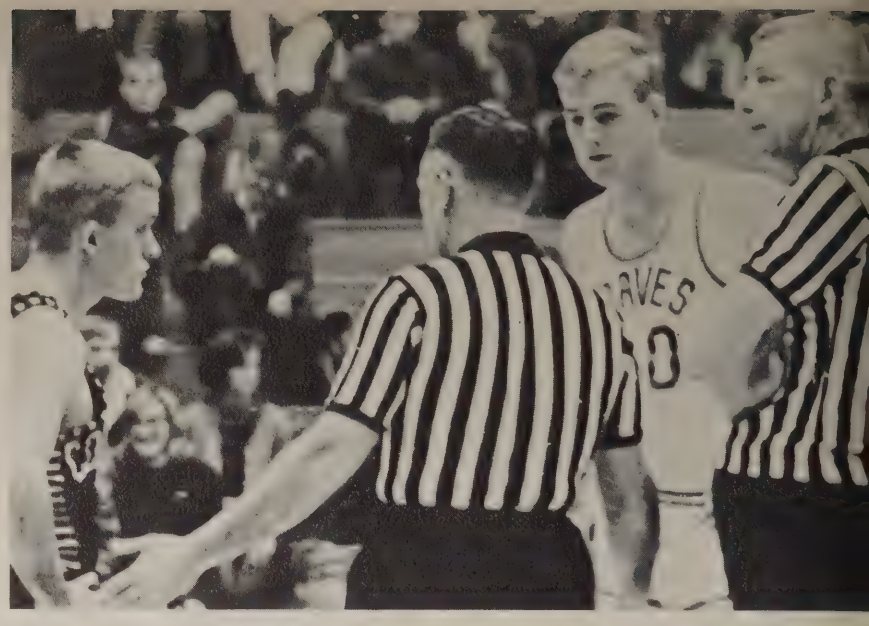
Split end, Jim Young, displays technique and keeps Concordia's hopes alive as he snags a touchdown pass.

Young Squad Gains Experience

"Wait 'till next Year!" This is a familiar cry among sports critics. But, in evaluating CTC's 1967-68 basketball team, one would tend to repeat the cry. The college cagers were dominated by underclassmen this year, with only three Seniors on the team. Although they suffered some heartbreaking setbacks, they gained invaluable experience, which should serve them well in the future. Beside being new to college basketball, most of the squad was new to Coach Brassie's "fast-break" type of offense.

Junior, Kent Jones, was the floor leader, fitting in well with the fast-break offense because of his speed. Tom Raabe was the leading scorer, as a Freshman on the young squad. Art Greve and Lloyd Pooker did the team's share of rebounding on a team with not a man over 6'5".

Although the season record is disappointing, the team never gave up, fighting back to win two of its last three games. Bulldog fans should have much to look forward to in coming years on the hardwood.



Concordia's captain, Kent Jones, meets with the officials and the other captain, before the Sioux Falls game.

Brian Naber demonstrates his freshman form as he drives around his defender.

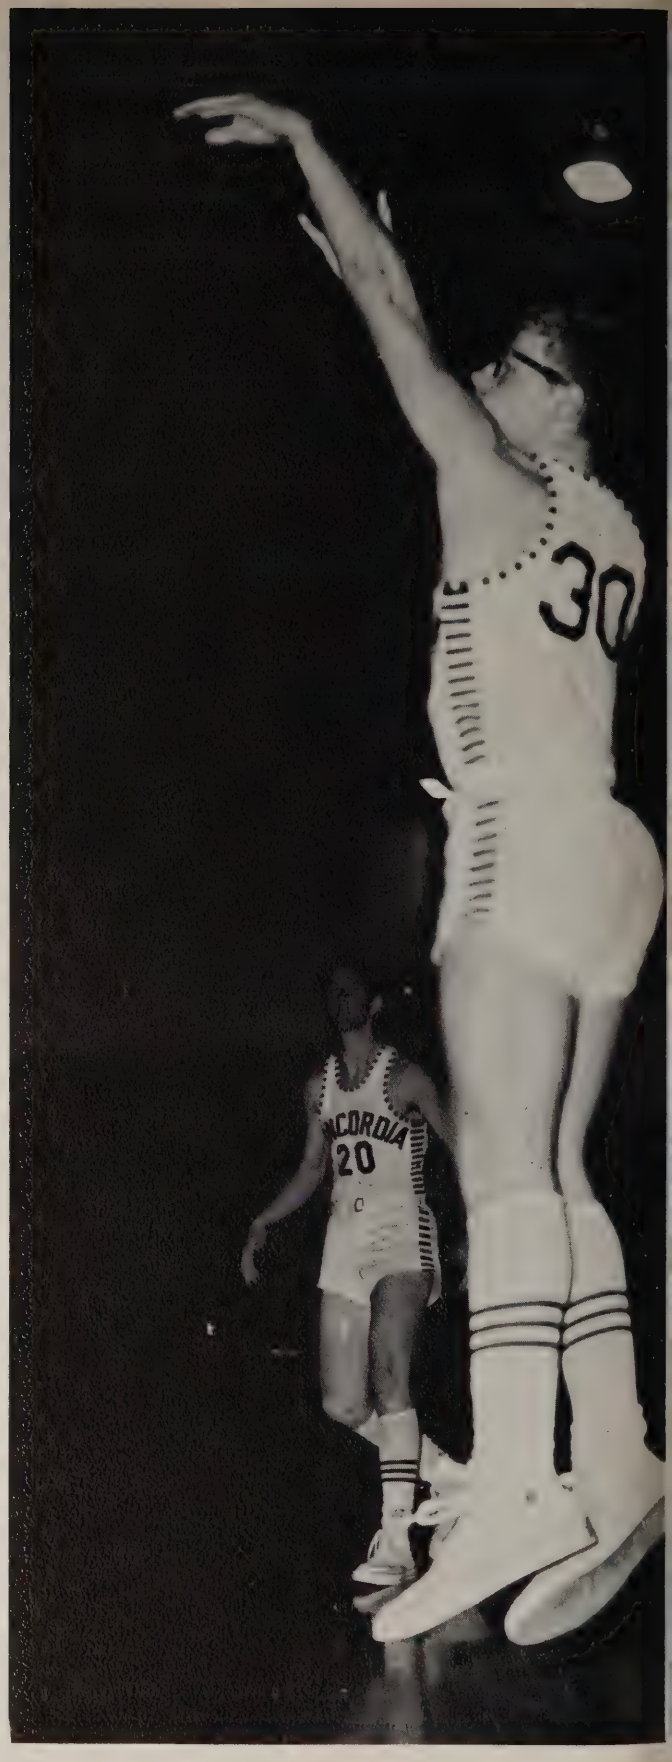
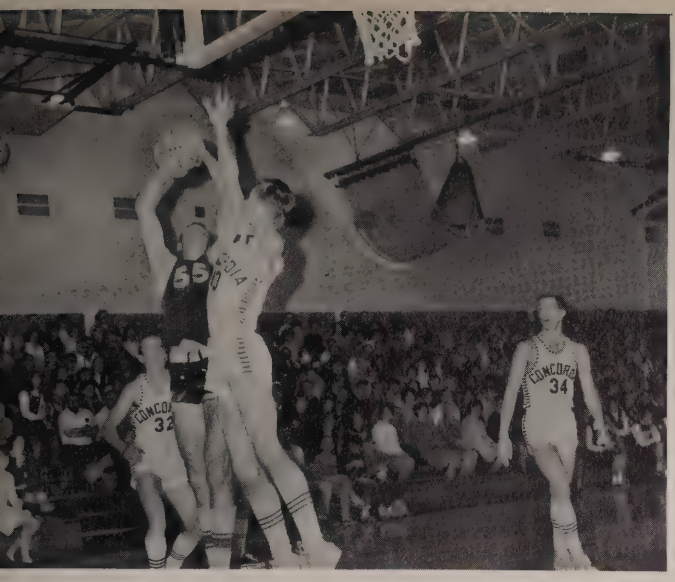
Success and Failure at C.I.T.

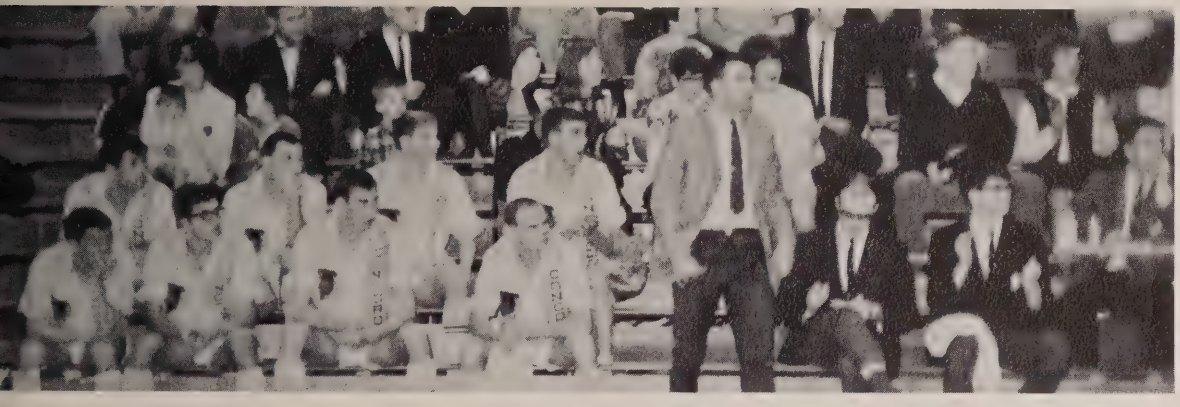
This year's Concordia Invitational Tournament was held at our sister college in River Forest, Illinois. Although the Bulldogs did not win the tournament, fans and players alike enjoyed the hospitality. Concordia, Seward lost the opening game to the Preachers of St. Louis, 70-67, but then came storming back to trounce the Comets from St. Paul, Minnesota, 102-79. Leading the Bulldogs in the scoring column the first game was freshman, Tom Raabe, with 19 points. The second game's point-getter was another freshman, Brian Naber, who gathered 18 points. In addition to being the leading scorer, Brian was honored by being chosen to the all-tournament team. The winners of the tournament were the Preachers, as they eked out a 4 point victory in an action packed thriller against River Forest.



As Rod Giesselmann keeps his eye on the ball, Tom Raabe, Concordia's leading scorer, demonstrates his scoring form.



Mike Tonn reaches high to stop Sioux Falls' scoring ace.



The players and head coach Brassie view an anxious moment in Concordia's last home game against Yankton.

Ron Bork proves his ability, as he strides out across the course.

Although the Bulldog cross country team didn't have a winning season, they showed a great deal of promise for the coming years. Coach Stan Brassie is optimistic about next year. With his entire team returning, he is looking forward to a strong team and a winning season.

Ron Bork ('70), the Most Valuable Player, for the second year in a row, had another good season, being 3-0 in conference duals, 5th in the conference meet and 5th at the NWU Invitational. Gary Ebendick ('69), a steady performer, will also be returning. Other returning lettermen include Dexter Hoyer ('69), Tim Lutz ('70), and Roger VanAndel ('71). Roger was voted Most Improved Player and shows a very promising future.

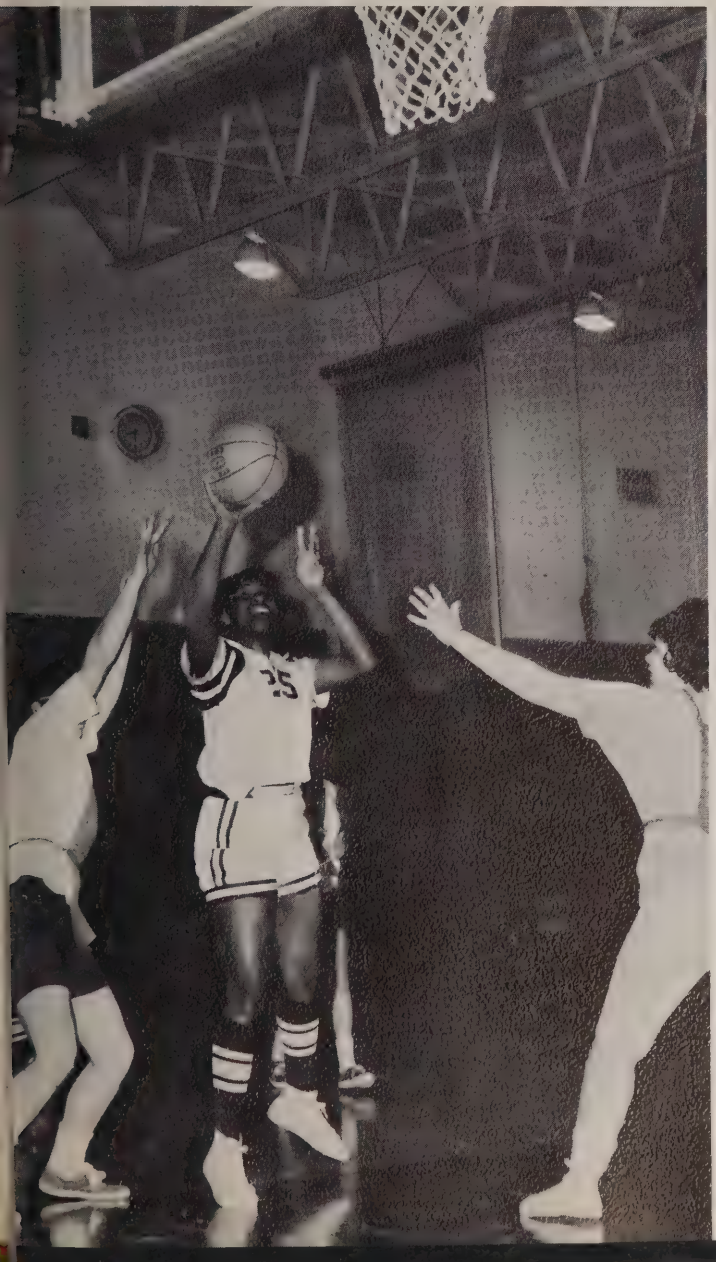
Coeds "Lay-up" Winning Season

With the arrival of the '67-'68 basketball season, the Coeds found themselves in a situation different from any encountered in previous years. Having dropped from the Midwestern AAU League, they were presented with a new schedule. This schedule saw the Coeds battle only teams from other colleges in Nebraska, the first step toward the formation of an intercollegiate league for women's sports in Nebraska. The big game of the year, however, was played outside of the state, at C.I.T. Having won the game last year against River Forest, the Coeds went to C.I.T. hoping to keep the record clean. The Coeds did return with a victory, by defeating River Forest. The Coeds had a well balanced team with good bench strength. With hard practice and good coaching, the Coeds met the challenge of a new schedule and had a successful season.

Melba Tolbert goes for two points in a win over Nebraska.



Shots like this add up to a winning season for the Coeds!

an Exciting Season

The CTC matmen finished with one of their most successful seasons. They had a dual record of 8-2 and were third in conference. The grapplers were led by Dick Grauer at 167 lb., and Gary Ebendick at 123 lb., both of whom, took second places at district, to qualify for the NAIA national tournament. This young team was coached by Larry Oetting in his first year as a coach at CTC. The wrestlers opened with a big win over Midland, early in December. The great team effort shown, was climaxed by the team's strong finish in conference, where they missed a record by only a couple of points, due to some key injuries. The great spirit and pride of the team were shown when, after their first loss to Westmar, they came back and won five straight duals. Wrestlers who had a very successful year and contributed much to the winning season were, George Vasilauskas at 191 lb., Phil Lang at 130 lb., Tim Ebendick at 137 lb., and Jon Schaus at 115 lb. At the end of the season, Gary Ebendick was named Most Valuable Wrestler and Dick Grauer was named honorary captain.

Exuberation plus is the reigning factor on Concordia's bench.

Swimmers Go Wet and Wild

Mark Meschke tucks at the top of his dive, before doing a "one and a half".

The '67-'68 "wet and wild" campaign featured the return of only five lettermen. However, Coach John Seevers led the "finmen" to a 5-5 dual meet record. Captain, Dennis Uecker, led the swimmers with a total of 99 points and broke two dual records and one championship record. Senior, Wayne Johannes, broke school records in both the 1,000 and 1,650 yard freestyle. Jim Landon ('69), Jim Krupp ('70), Mark Meschke ('69), and Alan Meyer ('71) also finished high in the scoring race. After a slow start, the "dog-paddlers" evened their record with three victories in one weekend.

In the closest meet of the year, Uecker "touched out" the Morningside freestyler in the last relay to win it for Concordia. The climax of the season came when Concordia hosted Chadron, Wayne, Kearney, and Hastings for the NAIA District meet.

At the close of the season, the team voted Dennis Uecker as the most valuable swimmer of the year and Jim Landon as the most improved swimmer. It was only through the efforts of all the swimmers and their coach, that Concordia was able to have such a successful swimming season.

Coeds Swim, Stride

Women at C.T.C. are given ample opportunities to develop their athletic abilities by participating in the Coed teams on campus. All of the teams are young and have pushed their way through their respective seasons with some degree of success.

The swimming team, under the direction of Mrs. Timm, claims a 1-2 season record. However, with the experience gained this year and with the majority of the team returning next year, the swimmers will be a team to watch.

The outdoor sports include the Coed track team, headed by Miss Goldgrabe, is now in its second year. An up-and-coming team, the track women placed second in the "Little Olympics" at Westmar. Although some of the team will be lost through graduation, this does not dwindle the team's hope for the '69 season.

Mrs. Timm led the women's tennis team to a successful season. The Coeds boast victories at the Tri-State Conference at Westmar. With all of the girls returning next year, another successful season is expected.

Winding up the outdoor sports, under the direction of Miss Kretzschmar, is the Coed softball team. The highlight of the season was the weekend trip to Stuart. Sporting a 2-2-1 season, the Coeds look forward to a promising future.

Roundballers are Up and Down

Timely hitting was most of the story as the Bulldogs journeyed east to face some of the roughest competition in the mid-west on the Easter trip. The team left Sunday, following opening victories over Westmar on Saturday. Monday they opened the trip against Southeast Mo. State, a team reputed to be one of the best hitting teams around. Steady pitching from Mike Mueller and a good relief job by Darryl Giesselman, plus good hitting from the middle of the lineup, combined to beat the Indians 6-3. Tuesday, Dennis Hartner threw shutout ball for 8 innings, as the Bulldogs swept the series, 8-2.

The team then travelled to St. Louis to meet Washington U. Jim Young slammed a triple with the bases loaded to put the game away, 8-4. Jerry Reinertson pitched fine ball in the second game, but the Teachers couldn't get the big hits when they were needed, and took their first defeat, 3-2.

Friday, the Bulldogs moved to Carbondale, Ill. to play Air Force in the Governor's Tournament. Mike Mueller again pitched good ball, but had one bad inning. The Academy rallied against reliever, Dean Jeske for 5 runs in the bottom of the sixth and put it out of reach for Concordia, 8-2.

Strength and Agility Make for Success

Senior Paul Jacob goes up and over as he takes the lead in the 120 high hurdles.

Early in the spring things looked bright for new Coach Larry Oetting and his track team. The team had a fine nucleus from the 1967 squad, plus some promising newcomers. Then the injuries started to come. Key performers such as Tom Heinz, Paul Jacob and Marc Terrass were slowed much of the season and were unable to improve on their school records of 1967. These and other injuries held Concordia's dual record to 0 and 2, and their triangular record to 1-2-1. They finished fifth in the Tri-State Conference meet at Sioux Falls. Still the season was not without its rewards, as new records were established by the 2-mile relay team of Marc Terrass, Rich Hoffmann, Bob Dowding, and Bob Ohlrich; by George Friedrichs in the javelin; by Ron Bork in the 3-mile run, and by Bob Dowding in the 440-intermediate hurdles. With most of these records falling to men who will be returning next year, things look bright for the 1969 spring season.

Dave Koopman clears the bar in the pole vault competition.

Tom Jenkins drives toward the green.

Golfers are Fourth in Tri-State

The only veterans of C.T.C.'s golf team were four year letterman Ken Mangels and one year letterman Ray Mueller. Other starters for this season were Juniors, Tom Jenkins and Rich Lindau. Jim Scheetz, who also saw some action last season, finished the roster. Although the team had a losing season, some individuals made good showings only to be overshadowed by a stronger team's effort. Weather plagued the golfers as they faced rain and wind continuously during the season. The Bulldogs concluded the season by taking fourth in the Conference Championship.

It's all smiles as the boys head for the club house.

Epilogue

As our school year is drawing to a close, so too, must our book. It is not possible for us to mention or picture all the events that happen in one school year but we have tried to do our best to represent the various activities of '67-'68 in this TOWER.

As we, the editors, reflect back over this year we want to thank our staff, our photographers, our advisor, Mr. Wiegmann, and the student body for working and cooperating with us so well.

We hope as you page through this TOWER you will recall many happy memories of this year. As you continue to the end of this book you will see the words, "Ready to Go." We hope this will not only remain with our seniors but with all the students that, as we leave another year behind, we are "ready to go" and face what lies ahead.

MONEY-FOR-LIVING

who saves?

Eventually almost everyone saves something. Even you. As a college graduate you will earn approximately 47 per cent more in your lifetime than a high school graduate. Some of your earnings should be yours to keep! If you start a life insurance program now, you can enjoy both protection and savings. Think smart. Let life insurance do your saving while it protects. Count on life insurance as money for living—for now and for later. Ask your AAL Professional how much security—and how much cash value—you can have at any future date. And have him explain how being an AAL member associates you fraternally with numerous projects of Lutheran concern. It's money for living—remember?
